French Navy Reported Battering Axis Sea Reinforcements

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

French and German troops battled in the streets of ancient Tunis today while the vanguard of a powerful Anglo-American expeditionary force raced across the Tunisian frontier to combat Nazi airborne invaders of the key North African buffer state.

Unofficial reports reaching London said the Allies were moving parachute troops into the developing struggle for Tunisia, where the Nazis had seized several airports.

Tunisia lies between American-occupied Algeria and Italian Libya.

Simultaneously, British headquarters announced that Gen. B. L. Montgomery's victorious British 8th Army had swept 40 miles beyond fallen Tobruk in pursuit of Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's fleeing troops.

Hitler's high command acknowledged that the British were attacking "with undiminished force on a wide front." The Italian high command also reported "heavy enemy pressure" in the Libyan desert.

Abandoned without a fight, Tobruk fell to the British yesterday morning, and today's communique said the triumphant imperials already had cleared the desert as far westward as Gazala.

"On with the task—good hunting to you all!" was the message General Montgomery sent to his troops as the chase of Rommel's battered forces continued.

"In three weeks we have completely smashed the German and Italian army," the British field commander said, announcing the virtual destruction of 12 Axis divisions.

A spokesman at Allied headquarters in London said between 60,000 and 100,000 Axis prisoners had been captured in the British advance from the old El Alamein front.

A British military commentator in London said between 60,000 and 100,000 Axis prisoners had been captured in the British advance from the old El Alamein front, 80 miles west of Alexandria.

"We have made a very good start and today there are no German or Italian soldiers on Egyptian territory except as prisoners," Montgomery told his troops.

"Our task is not finished yet."

A British communique indicated that Adolf Hitler was making a desperate attempt to reinforce his tenuous grip on the French protectorate of Tunisia, reporting that allied fighters yesterday shot down seven large Axis aircraft out of a formation of 60 planes en route from North Africa toward Sicily. Six others were badly damaged.

These were presumably Axis transport planes returning north to pick up more troops and supplies. Allied headquarters said the Germans already had landed 12-ton tanks in Tunisia by air and were trying to bring other reinforcements by sea.

Naval Battle Goes On

French radio broadcast said a naval battle was in progress off American-occupied Algeria, next door to Tunisia, which suggested that allied warships were attacking the Axis sea-borne reinforcements.

Latest dispatches pictured Tunisia, site of the 2,700-year-old Carthaginian empire, as the scene of widespread battle, with French troops fiercely resisting Nazi parachute troops in the crooked, winding streets of Tunis, the capital, and at other strategic centers.

All French soldiery in North Africa had now apparently swung over to the side of the United Nations, spurred on by appeals by such leaders as Admiral Jean Darlan, Gen. Henri Honore Giraud and Gen. Auguste Nogues.

All these former French mili-

New Budget Plan Changes Procedure Of County Board

Equalization Board to Meet Wednesday; Supervisors to Present Budgets for Townships

The new town budget system which goes into effect January 1 has changed the procedure in the annual session of the Board of Supervisors.

In former years the supervisors were able to bring in and offer "piecemeal" resolutions which provided the clerk with day to day business. Under the new system the town budgets will come in as a unit. For that reason Clerk James A. Simpson is seeking to have all town supervisors bring in their budgets Monday evening so that action may be taken.

The business of the session is practically at a standstill until the matter of consideration of town budgets is taken up.

A very brief session was held Friday evening at which time routine business was transacted. County Clerk Robert A. Snyder asked that $1,000 be appropriated for repairing and rebinding record books in the county clerk's office and that $500 be appropriated for extra clerk hire in the Motor Vehicle Bureau office during rush periods. Referred to committee on county clerk.

The board voted unanimously to retain George R. Fearon to prosecute a claim for unpaid highway moneys due from the state to the towns. In 1940 the state failed to pay certain state aid moneys to towns under Sections 112 and 279. Actions have been brought against the state in the Court of Claims and the decision is pending. Mr. Fearon offered to prosecute the claim of the towns in this county with others from other counties. He was voted a retainer of $10 and, should he be successful in the matter, he will receive 10 per cent of the moneys recovered. The 1940 money is about $33,000.

A communication was received from the state in which the state's figures on equalization rates were presented as follows: Denning 44 per cent, Esopus 35 per cent, Gardiner 40 per cent, Hardenbergh 40 per cent, Hurley 45 per cent, Kingston town 50 per cent, Lloyd 55 per cent, Marbletown 50 per cent, Marlborough 30 per cent, New Paltz 42 per cent, Olive 50 per cent, Plattekill 20 per cent, Rochester 46 per cent, Rosendale 25 per cent, Saugerties 50 per cent, Shandaken 48 per cent, Shawangunk 70 per cent, Wawarsing 47 per cent, Woodstock 55 per cent, Kingston City 70 per cent.

Referred to committee on equalization.

Stalin Has High Praise For U. S., British Push

Sends Letter to Associated Press Chief of Bureau in Moscow, Lauds Organization of Campaign

(Less than six weeks ago, Henry C. Cassidy, chief of The Associated Press bureau in Moscow, scored a journalistic coup when he obtained from Joseph Stalin a written statement expressing for the first time the Soviet premier's views on the second front question. Now Cassidy has scored again by obtaining from Stalin his reactions to the Allied thrust into North Africa.)

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
(Copyright, 1942, by The Associated Press)

Moscow, Nov. 14,—Joseph Stalin gave high praise today to the American and British campaign in North Africa and declared that it had created the prerequisites for a second front in Europe and shifted the political and military situation in Europe "in favor of the Anglo-Soviet-American coalition."

In his second letter to this correspondent in six weeks, the Soviet leader said the operations in North Africa could have been executed only by "first rate organizers" and pledged that "the Red army will fulfill its tasks with honor as it has been fulfilling it throughout the war."

The Soviet leader said the North African campaign would result in "a certain relief in pressure" on the Soviet Union in the near future and provided the "prospect of the disintegration of the Italo-German coalition."

The authorized English translation of the text of Stalin's letter follows:

"Dear Mr. Cassidy:

"I am answering your questions which reached me on November 12th.

"One. What is the Soviet view of the allied campaign in Africa?

"Answer. The Soviet view of this campaign is that it represents an outstanding factor major importance demonstrating the growing might of the armed forces of the allies and opening the prospect of the disintegration of the Italo-German coalition in the nearest future.

"The campaign in Africa refutes once more the skeptics who affirm that Anglo-American leaders are not capable of organizing a serious war campaign. There can be no doubt that no one but first rate organizers could carry out such serious war operations as the successful landings in North Africa across the ocean, as the quick occupation of harbors and wide territories from Casablanca to Bougie and as the smashing of Italo-German armies in the western desert, being effected with such mastery.

"Two. How effective has this campaign been in relieving pressure on the Soviet Union and what further aid does the Soviet Union await?

"Answer. It is yet too soon to say to what an extent this campaign has been effective in relieving immediate pressure on the Soviet Union. But it may be confidently said that the effect will not be a small one and that a cer-

Executive Order May Be Forthcoming to End Confused Authority

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Reorganization of the nation's manpower machinery under one directing head was reported today to be under consideration by President Roosevelt.

Although professing to be in the dark as to the exact nature of the President's plans, informed legislators said there appeared to be no doubt an executive order would be forthcoming soon to end what has been described in congress as "confusion and overlapping authority" among manpower agencies.

There was conjecture that the President would set up an agency charged not only with procuring sufficient workers at the right time and place, but also with authority to make certain that necessary materials were on hand to keep these workers busy.

This plan might also call for integration of the selective service system so that a comprehensive program of balancing manpower needs could be put into effect, as suggested by the senate defense investigating committee, in a report which the President has had for more than a month.

Tire Registration Centers Are Given By Ration Boards

Gasoline, Tires to Be Given on Mileage Basis; Two Essential Points Are Vital to Check

Under the new gasoline and tire ration regulations every holder of a Basic "A" or "D" gasoline ration book must re-register for gasoline and tires next week, Thursday, Friday or Saturday, November 19, 20 and 21, at one of the officially designated registration stations. This registration is for all holders of Basic "A" ration book for passenger cars and Basic "D" books for motorcycles.

A joint announcement of the registration period in Kingston and Ulster county was made yesterday by John M. Cashin, chairman of the Kingston City War Price and Ration Board, and Irving J. Kauder, chairman of the Ulster County War Price and Ration Board.

Under the new plan gasoline and tires will be rationed on a mileage basis and it is imperative that every owner of a passenger car holding the "A" book or a motorcycle owner with a "D" book register at one of the official inspection and registration stations during those three days. This will be a big task and all owners are urged to make application as early as possible.

The Kingston there are 36 offical inspection stations where forms will be available and where the required inspection of tires will be attended to. In the county there are 86 official stations which have been designated by the County Board. A fee of 25 cents may be charged by the station for the inspection of the five tires which must be registered by serial number at the time of the filling out of the application and registration form.

There are two very essential points which every car owner must bear in mind when calling at one of the official inspection stations for the tire inspection and in making out his application. The serial number of the five tires which you intend to keep and operate on your car must be available to the inspector and it is necessary to bring along your gas ration books. Mileage on the car must also be known, since speedometer mileage will be taken by the inspector and placed on the application blanks.

If those who call for an inspection and application form bring this date with them the process will be materially speeded up since all of the information required for re-registration is contained on the Japanese Admit Naval Damage in Solomons Battle

Imperial Tokyo Report Is First Announcement of New Major Battle Being Waged

(By The Associated Press)

Imperial Tokyo headquarters acknowledged today that a Japanese battleship had been damaged and two Japanese destroyers sunk in a fierce three-day-old battle still raging off Guadalcanal Island in the Solomons, but declared that heavy blows had been inflicted on the Allies.

This was the first indication of a major new sea-air battle around the lower end of the South Sea archipelago, where U. S. Army troops and Marines have been holding out for weeks against encircling Japanese forces.

More than balancing its own losses, as usual, the Japanese command asserted that powerful Japanese naval and air forces had sunk six United Nations cruisers and a destroyer, heavily damaged two cruisers and three destroyers, set three transports afire and shot down 19 planes.

Ten Japanese planes were listed as missing.

All these claims lacked confirmation from any Allied source, but Tokyo's admission that a Japanese battleship had been damaged suggested that the main enemy fleet had returned and that a large-scale engagement was in progress.

The Japanese fleet had previously withdrawn from the Solomons after suffering heavy losses.

Imperial headquarters said Japanese warships launched the attack Thursday and by night had penetrated into Allied naval lines and "destroyed more than half of the entire enemy naval craft and transports there."

Latest Allied communiques made no mention of any such battle, but declared that hard-hitting attacks on the Japanese ashore, at sea and in the air were cutting away enemy strength in the South Pacific.

Tabulating these blows, the navy in Washington and Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said American and Allied forces had damaged two Japanese cruisers and an 8,000-ton transport, destroyed 30 large landing boats and 30 planes, silenced enemy shore batteries and killed 700 Japanese.

The navy said the U. S. cruiser San Francisco and the destroyer Buchanan, moving in to support American ground troops on Guadalcanal, turned their heavy guns on Japanese troops east of Henderson air field, setting large fires and destroying 30 of 75 enemy landing boats.

While the American warships were pouring shells into the enemy, the Japanese attacked by air, but 28 U. S. Grumman Wildcats rose to the attack and shot down 16 bombers and five Zero fighters while shipboard anti-aircraft gunners shot down nine others.

Only one of 31 enemy planes escaped, the navy said.

Thirty Americans were killed when a flaming enemy plane, apparently in a "suicide dive," crashed on the deck of the San Francisco and five others were killed on the Buchanan in the explosion

Group of 88 Men Will Leave City Tuesday for Camp Upton Assignments

Tuesday, November 17, will prove a big day in Kingston with the Kingston draft board at 10 o'clock that morning sending a contingent of 135 men to an army induction center in Albany for physical tests, and at noon 88 men who were inducted into the army on November 10, will leave for Camp Upton.

The 88 men who leave for Camp Upton are those of the first contingent this month who passed the physical examinations in Albany and were inducted into the U. S. Army at that time.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, who is serving as grand marshal of all the parades that escort the new members of the U. S. Army to the West Shore railroad station, is preparing plans for the parade next Tuesday.

All organizations who plan to take part in the parade should get in touch with the fire chief and they will be assigned a place in the parade.

Included in the contingent that will leave for Camp Upton next Tuesday are Attorney Andrew J. Cook, Jr., son of former County Judge Andrew J. Cook, and one of the younger members of the Ulster County Bar. He served as one of the assistant leaders when the quota left Kingston November 10 for Albany.

Daniel J. Bittner, better known as "Danny Bittner", one of the leading pianists of the Hudson river valley, is also a member of the contingent. Danny Bittner for years has played the piano at the weekly luncheon meetings of the Kingston Kiwanis Club and also at many public assemblages.

Also members of the contingent are Theodore Gallop, the Strand jeweler, and Oscar Hawksley, both of whom with Bittner, served as assistant leaders when the group

Ace, Two Of Crew Are Saved at Sea

Three Other Fliers Are Found Safe on Island; One Man Dies on Raft.

Ace Is Well

Condition of Noted American Ace Is Reported Good

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Dauntless Eddie Rickenbacker has been rescued, in good condition, the Navy announced today, three weeks after his airplane radioed that it was about out of gasoline and then vanished in the Pacific.

Rickenbacker, America's ace of aces in the first World War and the country's embodied proof that you can't keep a good man down, was picked from a raft bobbing in the sea by a Navy Catalina flying boat along with two of his crew. They were 600 miles north of Samoa.

Three other army fliers who were with him on a survey of Pacific war zone air force operations have been located on an island. The rescue of one was announced yesterday and the seventh man of Rickenbacker's crew died in the long wait for rescue.

Colonel Hans C. Adamson and Private John F. Bartek were Rickenbacker's two companions at the time of rescue.

Adamson also was in good condition, the navy said, but Bartek is in serious condition. He is expected to recover from the suffering of exposure.

A fourth man on the little rubber raft which saved the 52-year old Rickenbacker had been Sergeant Alexander Caczmarczyk. He died several days ago and was buried at sea.

The three men located on the island are to have help from a United States Naval officer who has been flown there. The officer was directed to examine the condition of these men, give them immediate attention as needed and return them to a United States Naval base.

They also were located by a Catalina flying boat although there was no indication as to whether it was the same plane that saved Captain Rickenbacker and his raft companions.

Details of the rescue were not immediately available, but the Catalina is capable of landing on the sea and has already performed many daring rescues of stranded fliers and other persons from rafts so that it was considered probable that as soon as Rickenbacker, Adamson and Bartek were sighted by this plane, the plane landed, taxied alongside their tiny raft and took them in.

A widespread search had been on from the moment that it became apparent that Rickenbacker was probably down at sea following the receipt of the message on October 21 that the fuel supplies of his plane would not last an hour.

His Pacific trip was along the same lines as a survey he had previously made for Secretary Stimson of air force operations in the European theatre.

Hope of his safe rescue grew rapidly yesterday after the war department announced that his pilot had been found on a life raft. The Navy did not give the time of Rickenbacker's rescue.

"Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, Colonel Hans C. Adamson and Private John F. Bartek, all of the United States army who have been missing since October 21 when the plane in which they were flying was forced down in the Pacific, have been rescued from the sea by a Navy Catalina flying boat," the navy reported.

"Captain Rickenbacker reported that Sergeant Alexander Caczmar-

Moscow, Nov. 14.—Joseph Stalin gave high praise today to the American and British campaign in North Africa and declared that it had created the prerequisites for a second front in Europe and shifted the political and military situation in Europe "in favor of the Anglo-Soviet-American coalition."

In his second letter to this correspondent in six weeks, the Soviet leader said the operations in North Africa could have been executed only by "first rate organizers" and pledged that "the Red army will fulfill its tasks with honor as it has been fulfilling it throughout the war."

Imperial headquarters said Japanese warships launched the attack Thursday and by night had penetrated into Allied naval lines and "destroyed more than half of the entire enemy naval craft and transports there."

Latest Allied communiques made no mention of any such battle, but declared that hard-hitting attacks on the Japanese ashore, at sea and in the air were cutting away enemy strength in the South Pacific.

Tabulating these blows, the navy in Washington and Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said American and Allied forces had damaged two Japanese cruisers and an 8,000-ton transport, destroyed 30 large landing boats and 30 planes, silenced enemy shore batteries and killed 700 Japanese.

The navy said the U. S. cruiser San Francisco and the destroyer Buchanan, moving in to support American ground troops on Guadalcanal, turned their heavy guns on Japanese troops east of Henderson air field, setting large fires and destroying 30 of 75 enemy landing boats.

While the American warships were pouring shells into the enemy, the Japanese attacked by air, but 28 U. S. Grumman Wildcats rose to the attack and shot down 16 bombers and five Zero fighters while shipboard anti-aircraft gunners shot down nine others.

Only one of 31 enemy planes escaped, the navy said.

Thirty Americans were killed when a flaming enemy plane, apparently in a "suicide dive," crashed on the deck of the San Francisco and five others were killed on the Buchanan in the explosion

Group of 88 Men Will Leave City Tuesday for Camp Upton Assignments

Tuesday, November 17, will prove a big day in Kingston with the Kingston draft board at 10 o'clock that morning sending a contingent of 135 men to an army induction center in Albany for physical tests, and at noon 88 men who were inducted into the army on November 10, will leave for Camp Upton.

The 88 men who leave for Camp Upton are those of the first contingent this month who passed the physical examinations in Albany and were inducted into the U.S. Army at that time.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, who is serving as grand marshal of all the parades that escort the new members of the U.S. Army to the West Shore railroad station, is preparing plans for the parade next Tuesday.

All organizations who plan to take part in the parade should get in touch with the fire chief and they will be assigned a place in the parade.

Included in the contingent that will leave for Camp Upton next Tuesday are Attorney Andrew J. Cook, Jr., son of former County Judge Andrew J. Cook, and one of the younger members of the Ulster County Bar. He served as one of the assistant leaders when the quota left Kingston November 10 for Albany.

Daniel J. Bittner, better known as "Danny Bittner", one of the leading pianists of the Hudson river valley, is also a member of the contingent. Danny Bittner for years has played the piano at the weekly luncheon meetings of the Kingston Kiwanis Club and also at many public assemblages.

Also members of the contingent are Theodore Gallop, the Strand jeweler, and Oscar Hawksley, both of whom with Bittner, served as assistant leaders when the group

Ace, Two Of Crew Are Saved at Sea

Three Other Fliers Are Found Safe on Island; One Man Dies on Raft.

Ace Is Well

Condition of Noted American Ace Is Reported Good

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Dauntless Eddie Rickenbacker has been rescued, in good condition, the Navy announced today, three weeks after his airplane radioed that it was about out of gasoline and then vanished in the Pacific.

Rickenbacker, America's ace of aces in the first World War and the country's embodied proof that you can't keep a good man down, was picked from a raft bobbing in the sea by a Navy Catalina flying boat along with two of his crew. They were 600 miles north of Samoa.

Three other army fliers who were with him on a survey of Pacific war zone air force operations have been located on an island. The rescue of one was announced yesterday and the seventh man of Rickenbacker's crew died in the long wait for rescue.

Colonel Hans C. Adamson and Private John F. Bartek were Rickenbacker's two companions at the time of rescue.

Adamson also was in good condition, the navy said, but Bartek is in serious condition. He is expected to recover from the suffering of exposure.

A fourth man on the little rubber raft which saved the 52-year old Rickenbacker had been Sergeant Alexander Caczmarczyk. He died several days ago and was buried at sea.

The three men located on the island are to have help from a United States Naval officer who has been flown there. The officer was directed to examine the condition of these men, give them immediate attention as needed and return them to a United States Naval base.

They also were located by a Catalina flying boat although there was no indication as to whether it was the same plane that saved Captain Rickenbacker and his raft companions.

Details of the rescue were not immediately available, but the Catalina is capable of landing on the sea and has already performed many daring rescues of stranded fliers and other persons from rafts so that it was considered probable that as soon as Rickenbacker, Adamson and Bartek were sighted by this plane, the plane landed, taxied alongside their tiny raft and took them in.

A widespread search had been on from the moment that it became apparent that Rickenbacker was probably down at sea following the receipt of the message on October 21 that the fuel supplies of his plane would not last an hour.

His Pacific trip was along the same lines as a survey he had previously made for Secretary Stimson of air force operations in the European theatre.

Hope of his safe rescue grew rapidly yesterday after the war department announced that his pilot had been found on a life raft. The Navy did not give the time of Rickenbacker's rescue.

"Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, Colonel Hans C. Adamson and Private John F. Bartek, all of the United States army who have been missing since October 21 when the plane in which they were flying was forced down in the Pacific, have been rescued from the sea by a Navy Catalina flying boat," the navy reported.

"Captain Rickenbacker reported that Sergeant Alexander Caczmar-

President Roosevelt Signs Draft Bill for 18, 19 Classes

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—More than 2,000,000 youths in the 18 and 19 year old classes are subject today to military duty in the near future, but they have the promise of President Roosevelt that they will be helped in resuming their school and college careers after the war.

The chief executive, in signing the youth draftbill last night, disclosed that a committee of educators under war and navy auspices will study plans for young men to go back to their schooling after leaving the armed forces.

An equal opportunity, the President said in a formal statement, will be afforded other young men who desire training and other form of education after their army or navy service.

He said he also would announce in the near future a plan to utilize during the war certain colleges and universities to train a limited number of men for 'highly specialized" duties in the armed forces.

"These men will be selected solely on the basis of their ability," the President said, "and without regard to whether or not they are now in college or whether they could otherwise afford to go to college."

In signing the bill only a day after final congressional action on a measure stripped of all restrictions as to length of training before combat duty, the President said the time had now come "when the successful prosecution of the war requires that we call to the colors the men of 18 and 19."

While many in these age groups have already volunteered, Mr. Roosevelt said, others have been "eagerly awaiting the call" and "all are ready and anxious to serve."

He expected large numbers to come from schools and colleges and said while some action to help youths resume interrupted educational careers was improvised at the end of the last war, this time "we are planning in advance."

Officials have estimated that there are about 2,400,00 youths between 18 and 20 already registered and that about 2,000,000 or more might go toward making up the 4,500,000 additional men needed in all the four armed services by the end of the 1943 calendar year.

These calculations take into account the youths who will become 18 between now and well into 1943. From the present 18 and 19 year olds registered, officials believe about 1,500,000 eventually will find their way into the service.

Inductions of this new reservoir of fighting power are not expected to begin until around the first of the year.

While many may be called within 30 or 40 days, the induction times will vary, depending on the extent of preparations of local boards to meet quotas with older men and how quickly the boards classify the new groups for service.

French Fight Nazis in Tunisia

tary chieftains now are collaborating with the allies.

The exact position of France's old Marshal Petain still was obscure, but it was apparent that he was acting under heavy Nazi pressure and virtually a German prisoner.

A Vichy broadcast asserted the 86-year-old French chief of state had sent a message to Admiral Darlan declaring that Darlan's decision to resume responsibility for French interests in Africa, with the approval of American authorities, was against Petain's orders.

Reports from Tangier said British troops, the vanguard of Lieut.-Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's British-American expeditionary column, had already crossed into Tunisia from Algeria.

Nazi parachute troops were reported in control of the airdrome at Tunis, 80 miles east of the Tunisian frontier, which was again under heavy attack last night.

The Algiers radio said Tunis was under air-raid alarm twice during the night, once for three hours and later for 30 minutes.

A British communique said allied planes also bombed and machine-gunned the Tunis airdrome Thursday night, destroying Nazi planes, gasoline supplies, workshops and hangars.

Meanwhile, the Red armies yielded slightly as the Germans pressed a furious new assault in the bloody northside factory district of Stalingrad, but Soviet headquarters declared at noon today that the advance was "insignificant."

The Russian communique said further Nazi attacks were thrown back, with the Germans leaving 900 dead on the rubble-littered streets.

Northwest of the besieged Volga metropolis, Red army troops were reported to have stormed a "large populated place," inflicted heavy casualties on the Germans, and beat off Nazi counter-attacks.

Russian gains also were noted in two key sectors of the Caucasus—on the Nalchik plateau, where the Nazi drive toward the Georgian military highway was declared blunted, and northeast of Taupse on the Black Sea coast.

With the allies now within striking distance of Italy, reports from Rome via Switzerland indicated that Premier Mussolini was feverishly attempting to tighten control over the disheartened and invasion-fearing Italian people.

These dispatches said "the supreme leadership of the Fascist party is striving to tighten the reins and that party leaders had been ordered to exercise "merciless severity against all defeatist elements and spreaders of alarmist rumors."

Britain's long-range bombers again flew 1,500 miles round trip across the Alps last night to attack Italy's supply port of Genoa for the second time in a week.

An R.A.F. communique said "many large fires" were left raging in the city, and the Italian high command acknowledged that severe damage was inflicted.

Genoa is a major base for the shipment of war supplies to the Axis in North Africa.

Meantime, Japan narrowly watched the situation resulting from Hitler's disastrous setbacks in the Mediterranean theatre.

The Japanese embassy in Berlin announced that all Japanese chiefs of diplomatic missions in Europe had been assembled in the German capital since November 10 and had "thoroughly studied" the turn of events.

Catskill Nurse Is Rescued at Sea

Spends 19 Days in Open Boat Off Irish Coast

Miss Margaret Somerville, of Catskill, a Red Cross nurse who spent 19 days at sea in an open boat after her ship was torpedoed, said on her return yesterday that she would enlist as an Army nurse for more war work as soon as she had a short rest, the Associated Press reports.

Miss Somerville, 26, formerly of Union City, N. J., visited Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Snyder of 1201 Palisades avenue, Union City, before going to the home of her mother at Catskill. She was accompanied by another survivor of the same ship, Miss Helen Juriewitz, 30, of South Amboy.

Their food gave out three days before they were rescued by a British destroyer off the coast of Ireland, Miss Somerville related. Until then, she and Miss Juriewitz and the two British and five Norwegian sailors in their boat lived off a daily ration of two ounces of water, a biscuit and a meatball.

Miss Somerville was formerly a nurse at the Albany Hospital.

Twenty Degrees in City During Night

Cold, chilling breezes swept through the streets of Kingston Friday night and early today driving the mercury in the thermometers down to new lows for the season, and again forming skim ice in the city. At 6 o'clock this morning thermometers in various sections of the city registered as low as 20 degrees.

On Friday there was a fall of light snow in the city, but it melted as fast as it fell. Rain also fell at intervals througnout the day.

The city hall thermometer that day registered from 31 to 51 degrees.

During the early evening hours last night it gradually grew colder as a high wind howled through the streets.

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—Scattered favorites managed to tack on minor recoveries in today's stock market but leaders generally displayed further rising reluctance.

Hesitancy was the rule at the start of the brief session and, with dealings exceptionally sluggish, small fractional declines were in the majority near the final hour. Numerous issues held at Friday's closing levels.

The war news remained on the side of bullish forces but waning enthusiasm over a quick victory inspired more profit cashing in some of the recently strong peace stocks. Firm bids still were lacking for most of the armament issues.

Bonds were relatively steady, and commodities mixed.

Among stocks General Motors was up ⅛ and Chrysler off as much. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem did virtually nothing. In arrears most of the time were Southern Pacific, Western Union, Sears Roebuck, Standard Oil (N. J.), American can, General Electric and Boeing. Tire Registration Centers Are Given By Ration Boards present gasoline ration books and on the tires themselves.

Five Tires Only Allowed

A car owner is permitted to have but five tires in his possession and any tires in excess of this number are to be turned in.

The application form, O.P.A. Form R-534, is a simple form upon which the name of the owner of the car, his address, license number, year of manufacture, name and type of car is to be given. There is provision for the serial number of the five tires you may keep and also a space for entering the serial number of any tires in excess of five. Any tire in excess of five however must be turned in and the car owner naturally will keep the best five tires he owns. Every car owner may have four shoes on the wheels and a fifth as a spare.

Serial numbers are taken at the time of the inspection and entered on the application. Tires must be inspected every two months thereafter and at these inspections the same serial numbers as appear on the application form be in the possession of the owner unless a new tire has been issued by the ration board.

When the application form is filled out it is retained by the inspecting officer and sent to the local ration board where one portion is kept as a permanent record of the car and serial numbers of the tires, the other portion will be mailed back to the car owner and is kept by him for use at future tire inspections which must be made every two months.

The purpose of the registration is to place all motorists holding Basic "A" or "D" books on a mileage basis for both gasoline and tires in the future. Thus the speedometer mileage reading at this time is very essential.

While most inspections will be made at the nearest official inspection station, a person from the county may have a city station inspect his tires or a county station may inspect a city car.

In order to assist the inspection station in the work next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, John M. Cashin, chairman of the Kingston Rationing Board has asked for volunteers to aid in the work. Any person who is willing to serve those three days at some tire inspection station will be assigned to a place if they will call the Kingston Ration Board at 4732 and give their name and address. This service will be voluntary and will be a patriotic contribution to the service. It is essential that at least forty volunteers offer their services.

It is necessary for the owner of the car or the person to whom the license is issued appear in person when the application form is made out since it requires the signature of the applicant.

The usual hours of the inspection stations will be observed and they are generally from 7 in the morning to 7 o'clock in the evening.

Persons holding Basic "A" or "D" gasoline ration books who do not register during the three day period next week may be deprived of gasoline and tires under the regulations of the O.P.A.

At the inspection stations there will be someone to aid in filling out the blanks, although the owner may make out his own blank but the inspector must inspect the tires and check the serial numbers of all five tires to be retained.

In the City of Kingston the following stations have been designated as official inspection stations:

Farewell Party Is Given For Henry VanDerZee

On Wednesday evening a farewell party was given Henry S. VanDerzee who enters the service of the U. S. Army Tuesday, by members of the Franklin Street A.M.E. Zion Church. The patriotic theme was effectively used in the decorations of the church parlors where the reception was held. More than 75 guests were served by the committee under the guidance of Mrs. C. B. Walker and several ladies of the church. The Rev. C. F. A. Kirton, pastor of the church, officiated as master of ceremonies, and called on many of the guests present, who spoke of Mr. VanDerzee.

For the past 15 years he has been employed in the operating room of Kingston hospital. He has also served as superintendent of the Franklin street Sunday school, chorister of the senior choir of the church, a member of the Board of Trustees, Church Clerk and recently as Scout Master of Troop 4. Fraternally, Mr. VanDerzee is financial secretary of Colonial City Lodge No. 733, I.B.P.O.E. of W.; secretary of J. R. B. Smith Lodge No. 4473; past worthy master and special deputy of Gateway Lodge No. 35, A. F. and A. M.

Robert Hymes of Troop 4 presented Mr. VanDerzee with a money belt as a token of esteem from the troop, and Mrs. Robert Hardin and Theron B. Mowers presented him with a large sum of money from the members and friends of the church. The guest of honor responded with a short speech.

All members of Kingston Lodge, No. 550, B.P.O.E., are requested to meet at the Lodge rooms Sunday evening at seven o'clock, when a farewell party will be tendered to two members who are leaving shortly to join the armed forces.

They are Philip Dreiser of Whiteport, who will be inducted into service on November 20 and Morris Isaacson of Kingston, who leaves on Tuesday.

The affair will also be in the nature of a reception for Lieut. Albert Margolis of the Medical Corps, who is home on a furlough from Fort Polk, La.

Students' Weekly Has Article About Steuding

The Utah Chronicle, published by the students of the University of Utah, in its weekly issue of October 29, prints a fine picture of Major Ernest A. Steuding, sitting at his typewriter and with it an appreciative write-up of the "New ROTC Instructor Who Really Gets Around."

It is noted that Major Steuding, who is the new instructor of military science and tactics, has been at the university since last June and in the past two years "has seen plenty of Army camps, from New York to the Pacific ocean."

Saying that the Major has been a commissioned officer in the National Guard and the Army reserve for 14 years, it is stated that following his induction in 1940 and his promotion to major he has been at Fort Dix; Pine Camp; A. H. Hill Military Reservation, Va.; Waynesboro, N. C.; Fort Bragg, N. C.; Claybourne, La.; Portland, Ore., and was transferred to Utah from Fort Lewis, Wash.

He was in charge of evacuating all Japanese from Oregon, the interviewer learned, adding that "while there he saw what he considers one of the most beautiful spots in the United States, the Hood River Valley."

He has written several articles on tactics, his most recent one being on tank destroyer tactics.

Major Steuding is a native of Kingston, a graduate of St. Joseph's Parochial School, Kingston High School, Pratt Institute and the Officers' Training School at Fort Sill, Okla.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The Senior Class of 1943 will have its Senior Prom, Thanksgiving Day night, after the Kingston-Newburgh football classic. The band which is going to play for the seniors is John Napoleon's. Napoleon and his band are well-known throughout Kingston, since they used to play at Huling's Barn.

The Kingston High School Camera Club will bring an old-time comedian Harold Lloyd back to K. H. S. in a side-splitting comedy entitled "The Cat's Paw." This a full-length, sound moving picture.

The proceeds from the program will go to the fund for a school service flag.

The comedy will be presented November 18, in the Kingston High School Auditorium.

The Michael School Dramatic Club will present the play "Don't Take My Penny" before two audiences on November 24 in the M. J. M. auditorium. The afternoon performance, will begin at 3:20.

Since each club in the school must prove that it is helping the war program in some way, the Senior Dramatic Club will select a play with a war theme and present it to the students. President Hilda May Kinch has appointed a committee to read and choose various plays, the best of which will be voted upon by the entire club. This committee consists of: chairman, Thatcher Wood; William Arnold, William Fitzgerald, Gloria Jaffer, and Janice Reben.

The "Scholastic" magazine is now publishing a series of plays, which emphasize the war-time theme. The committee will select one of these plays.

Kingston High School students will have an opportunity to participate in the current Red Cross drive by joining as Junior members.

This organization will be part of the present High School Victory Corps. Members will engage in work to aid the boys in the armed service:—in the camps, at the front, and in the hospitals. Boys will construct various articles for hospital comfort while the girls will sew, knit, fold surgical dressings and cook. Those students who are clever in art, will find a chance to show their skill.

In order that the school may take its share of war responsibility 100% student membership is the goal of this drive.

At a recent Senior meeting, Mrs. Helen E. Partlan, faculty advisor of the Maroon explained to those students who expect to join some branch of the armed services, how they could still receive their Maroon. If the prospective soldier, sailor, or marine deposits $1.10 with Mr. Vaughn and delegates someone to sell his tickets for the senior play, he will receive his 1943 Maroon regardless of where he is stationed. He is also entitled to have his picture in the Maroon.

The newly-formed Debating Society, headed by President Robert Lipgar, will journey to Highland to participate in a debate. The subject of the discussion will be "Resolved that the United Nations after the war should establish an international police force to prevent further acts of aggression." This debate will be the first of its kind since 1936 when the now defunct Webster-Hayne Debating Society made a series of discussions with other schools.

The bankers from each roll-call room in K. H. S. will solicit contributions for the annual Industrial Home collection. It is hoped that every student will contribute at least a five-cent piece; if this goal is reached, the entire collection will net more than $100.00.

The K. H. S. keglers, who have been competing for the past three weeks, have elected their officers for the season. William Crosby is president; Joseph Schiavone was named secretary, with Clyde Wonderly, treasurer.

President Roosevelt Signs Draft Bill for 18, 19 Classes

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—More than 2,000,000 youths in the 18 and 19 year old classes are subject today to military duty in the near future, but they have the promise of President Roosevelt that they will be helped in resuming their school and college careers after the war.

The chief executive, in signing the youth draftbill last night, disclosed that a committee of educators under war and navy auspices will study plans for young men to go back to their schooling after leaving the armed forces.

An equal opportunity, the President said in a formal statement, will be afforded other young men who desire training and other form of education after their army or navy service.

He said he also would announce in the near future a plan to utilize during the war certain colleges and universities to train a limited number of men for 'highly specialized" duties in the armed forces.

"These men will be selected solely on the basis of their ability," the President said, "and without regard to whether or not they are now in college or whether they could otherwise afford to go to college."

In signing the bill only a day after final congressional action on a measure stripped of all restrictions as to length of training before combat duty, the President said the time had now come "when the successful prosecution of the war requires that we call to the colors the men of 18 and 19."

While many in these age groups have already volunteered, Mr. Roosevelt said, others have been "eagerly awaiting the call" and "all are ready and anxious to serve."

He expected large numbers to come from schools and colleges and said while some action to help youths resume interrupted educational careers was improvised at the end of the last war, this time "we are planning in advance."

Officials have estimated that there are about 2,400,00 youths between 18 and 20 already registered and that about 2,000,000 or more might go toward making up the 4,500,000 additional men needed in all the four armed services by the end of the 1943 calendar year.

These calculations take into account the youths who will become 18 between now and well into 1943. From the present 18 and 19 year olds registered, officials believe about 1,500,000 eventually will find their way into the service.

Inductions of this new reservoir of fighting power are not expected to begin until around the first of the year.

While many may be called within 30 or 40 days, the induction times will vary, depending on the extent of preparations of local boards to meet quotas with older men and how quickly the boards classify the new groups for service.

French Fight Nazis in Tunisia

tary chieftains now are collaborating with the allies.

The exact position of France's old Marshal Petain still was obscure, but it was apparent that he was acting under heavy Nazi pressure and virtually a German prisoner.

A Vichy broadcast asserted the 86-year-old French chief of state had sent a message to Admiral Darlan declaring that Darlan's decision to resume responsibility for French interests in Africa, with the approval of American authorities, was against Petain's orders.

Reports from Tangier said British troops, the vanguard of Lieut.-Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's British-American expeditionary column, had already crossed into Tunisia from Algeria.

Nazi parachute troops were reported in control of the airdrome at Tunis, 80 miles east of the Tunisian frontier, which was again under heavy attack last night.

The Algiers radio said Tunis was under air-raid alarm twice during the night, once for three hours and later for 30 minutes.

A British communique said allied planes also bombed and machine-gunned the Tunis airdrome Thursday night, destroying Nazi planes, gasoline supplies, workshops and hangars.

Meanwhile, the Red armies yielded slightly as the Germans pressed a furious new assault in the bloody northside factory district of Stalingrad, but Soviet headquarters declared at noon today that the advance was "insignificant."

The Russian communique said further Nazi attacks were thrown back, with the Germans leaving 900 dead on the rubble-littered streets.

Northwest of the besieged Volga metropolis, Red army troops were reported to have stormed a "large populated place," inflicted heavy casualties on the Germans, and beat off Nazi counter-attacks.

Russian gains also were noted in two key sectors of the Caucasus —on the Nalchik plateau, where the Nazi drive toward the Georgian military highway was declared blunted, and northeast of Taupse on the Black Sea coast.

With the allies now within striking distance of Italy, reports from Rome via Switzerland indicated that Premier Mussolini was feverishly attempting to tighten control over the disheartened and invasion-fearing Italian people.

These dispatches said "the supreme leadership of the Fascist party is striving to tighten the reins and that party leaders had been ordered to exercise "merciless severity against all defeatist elements and spreaders of alarmist rumors."

Britain's long-range bombers again flew 1,500 miles round trip across the Alps last night to attack Italy's supply port of Genoa for the second time in a week.

An R.A.F. communique said "many large fires" were left raging in the city, and the Italian high command acknowledged that severe damage was inflicted.

Genoa is a major base for the shipment of war supplies to the Axis in North Africa.

Meantime, Japan narrowly watched the situation resulting from Hitler's disastrous setbacks in the Mediterranean theatre.

The Japanese embassy in Berlin announced that all Japanese chiefs of diplomatic missions in Europe had been assembled in the German capital since November 10 and had "thoroughly studied" the turn of events.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—Scattered favorites managed to tack on minor recoveries in today's stock market but leaders generally displayed further rising reluctance.

Hesitancy was the rule at the start of the brief session and, with dealings exceptionally sluggish, small fractional declines were in the majority near the final hour. Numerous issues held at Friday's closing levels.

The war news remained on the side of bullish forces but waning enthusiasm over a quick victory inspired more profit cashing in some of the recently strong peace stocks. Firm bids still were lacking for most of the armament issues.

Bonds were relatively steady, and commodities mixed.

Among stocks General Motors was up ⅛ and Chrysler off as much. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem did virtually nothing. In arrears most of the time were Southern Pacific, Western Union, Sears Roebuck, Standard Oil (N. J.), American can, General Electric and Boeing. Resistant were Ohio Oil, Phillips Petroleum, American Telephone, Santa Fe and Goodrich.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 60 Beaver street, New York city, branch office, 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

Spends 19 Days in Open Boat Off Irish Coast

Miss Margaret Somerville, of Catskill, a Red Cross nurse who spent 19 days at sea in an open boat after her ship was torpedoed, said on her return yesterday that she would enlist as an Army nurse for more war work as soon as she had a short rest, the Associated Press reports.

Their food gave out three days before they were rescued by a British destroyer off the coast of Ireland, Miss Somerville related. Until then, she and Miss Juriewitz and the two British and five Norwegian sailors in their boat lived off a daily ration of two ounces of water, a biscuit and a meatball.

Miss Somerville was formerly a nurse at the Albany Hospital.

Twenty Degrees in City During Night

Cold, chilling breezes swept through the streets of Kingston Friday night and early today driving the mercury in the thermometers down to new lows for the season, and again forming skim ice in the city. At 6 o'clock this morning thermometers in various sections of the city registered as low as 20 degrees.

On Friday there was a fall of light snow in the city, but it melted as fast as it fell. Rain also fell at intervals throughout the day.

The city hall thermometer that day registered from 31 to 51 degrees.

During the early evening hours last night it gradually grew colder as a high wind howled through the streets.

Tire Registration Centers Are Given By Ration Boards

present gasoline ration books and on the tires themselves.

Five Tires Only Allowed

A car owner is permitted to have but five tires in his possession and any tires in excess of this number are to be turned in.

The application form, O.P.A. Form R-534, is a simple form upon which the name of the owner of the car, his address, license number, year of manufacture, name and type of car is to be given. There is provision for the serial number of the five tires you may keep and also a space for entering the serial number of any tires in excess of five. Any tire in excess of five however must be turned in and the car owner naturally will keep the best five tires he owns. Every car owner may have four shoes on the wheels and a fifth as a spare.

Serial numbers are taken at the time of the inspection and entered on the application. Tires must be inspected every two months thereafter and at these inspections the same serial numbers as appear on the application form be in the possession of the owner unless a new tire has been issued by the ration board.

When the application form is filled out it is retained by the inspecting officer and sent to the local ration board where one portion is kept as a permanent record of the car and serial numbers of the tires, the other portion will be mailed back to the car owner and is kept by him for use at future tire inspections which must be made every two months.

The purpose of the registration is to place all motorists holding Basic "A" or "D" books on a mileage basis for both gasoline and tires in the future. Thus the speedometer mileage reading at this time is very essential.

While most inspections will be made at the nearest official inspection station, a person from the county may have a city station inspect his tires or a county station may inspect a city car.

In order to assist the inspection station in the work next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, John M. Cashin, chairman of the Kingston Rationing Board has asked for volunteers to aid in the work. Any person who is willing to serve those three days at some tire inspection station will be assigned to a place if they will call the Kingston Ration Board at 4732 and give their name and address. This service will be voluntary and will be a patriotic contribution to the service. It is essential that at least forty volunteers offer their services.

It is necessary for the owner of the car or the person to whom the license is issued appear in person when the application form is made out since it requires the signature of the applicant.

The usual hours of the inspection stations will be observed and they are generally from 7 in the morning to 7 o'clock in the evening.

Persons holding Basic "A" or "D" gasoline ration books who do not register during the three day period next week may be deprived of gasoline and tires under the regulations of the O.P.A.

At the inspection stations there will be someone to aid in filling out the blanks, although the owner may make out his own blank but the inspector must inspect the tires and check the serial numbers of all five tires to be retained.

In the City of Kingston the following stations have been designated as official inspection stations:

Students' Weekly Has Article About Steuding

The Utah Chronicle, published by the students of the University of Utah, in its weekly issue of October 29, prints a fine picture of Major Ernest A. Steuding, sitting at his typewriter and with it an appreciative write-up of the "New ROTC Instructor Who Really Gets Around."

It is noted that Major Steuding, who is the new instructor of military science and tactics, has been at the university since last June and in the past two years "has seen plenty of Army camps, from New York to the Pacific ocean."

Saying that the Major has been a commissioned officer in the National Guard and the Army reserve for 14 years, it is stated that following his induction in 1940 and his promotion to major he has been at Fort Dix; Pine Camp; A. H. Hill Military Reservation, Va.; Waynesboro, N. C.; Fort Bragg, N. C.; Claybourne, La.; Portland; Ore., and was transferred to Utah from Fort Lewis, Wash.

He was in charge of evacuating all Japanese from Oregon, the interviewer learned, adding that "while there he saw what he considers one of the most beautiful spots in the United States, the Hood River Valley."

He has written several articles on tactics, his most recent one being on tank destroyer tactics.

Major Steuding is a native of Kingston, a graduate of St. Joseph's Parochial School, Kingston High School, Pratt Institute and the Officers' Training School at Fort Sill, Okla.

'TIS AN ILL WIND

There's an old saying to the effect it's an ill wind that blows nobody good. This is true of the present automobile and traffic situation. There has been a great deal of complaint over the country because of the shortage of gasoline and rubber. It was found necessary to reduce the national speed average to thirty-five miles per hour. The rubber and oil situation certainly is neither a comforting nor a desirable one.

But now comes the silver lining to the cloud. There was a reduction of twenty-four per cent in the motor-vehicle casualties of the nation for the first three months of the year, according to a report recently made public by the National Safety Council. The total casualties were 21,290 compared with 27,900 for the same period last year, a saving of 6,600 lives. The curtailing of traveling in the western part of the country beginning this month is expected further to cut down the fatalities.

For example, such fatalities in September this year were forty per cent less than the record shows for the same month in 1941. August showed a drop of 43 per cent over the preceding year. As rationing spreads the record is expected to get even better. According to Sidney J. Williams, director of public safety for the Council:

"The fact that the September reduction was no greater than in August indicates that larger decreases in travel and accidents may not be forthcoming until rationing is extended throughout the nation. When all travel is rationed it is possible that the death toll will be only half what it was in the latter months of 1941."

In the Eastern seaboard states during the first three months of the year before gasoline rationing went into effect travel had decreased six per cent from the first three months of 1941. But after rationing went into effect the decrease was 29 per cent. By August the travel in the Eastern states was down 37 per cent over August 1941.

Of course nobody wants rationing of gasoline and rubber to continue indefinitely. Our civilization is now built on wheels. With our widely-flung country and our greater centers of population, modern civilization could scarcely survive as it is were the automobile suddenly to be eliminated. The automobile, despite traffic fatalities, has been a great boon.

What we are most interested in is curtailing not the automobile, but fatalities due to motor travel. It seems this can best be done by wise regulation and a campaign of education. Perhaps this rationing will convince people that while their cars are almost an essential we can get along with less travel than we thought. But more important if the thirty-five mile an hour limit teaches drivers they can get places as quickly and more surely by a reasonable rate of speed then indeed rationing will be worth all the discomforts it is causing the country.

RISING POWER

The government's plans for mobilization of American fighting power now call for an army of 9,700,000 men, in round numbers 10,000,000. It is a larger force than most experts have thought necessary or possible. But since the dispatch of that incredible American army to North Africa, with so short a time for preparation, civilians can only look on admiringly and assume that the men in charge know what they're doing.

At the same time civilians will have to be humping to do their part of the big job. It is hardly less important than that of the fighting forces, though much safer. The more men there are under arms, the more raw materials must be fed into the factories and the more finished munitions must pour out. It takes far more workers to produce the armament than there are fighting men to use it. The productive capacities of this nation will be strained more than they have ever been before.

So longer working hours are inevitable. And for God's sake, no more strikes! There are adequate means of settling disputes without quitting work. With all those American fighting men to be supplied in Europe and throughout the world, any strike interfering with the production and dispatch of munitions would be little less than treason.

KNOWING LATIN AMERICA

For neighbors so near to each other, the United States and Latin America have remained on surprisingly strange terms. Our out-of-country interests have pointed east to Europe, and the same is true of the South American. The wealthy Uruguayan or Brazilian has visited Paris 20 times to one trip to New York.

This mutual lack of knowledge should be remedied. Sharing this opinion, an enterprising public library has just opened a special Latin American room, where books and information of all kinds on our southern neighbors will be available. Librarians who have specialized in these countries will be in attendance.

Ignorance of South America may be explained, but in these days when South Americans and ourselves stand together against a common enemy, it cannot be excused.

MARATHON

"The mountains look on Marathon,
And Marathon looks on the sea;
And musing here an hour alone,
I dreamed that Greece might still be free."

So wrote the poet Byron a century and a quarter ago. The victory of Marathon, won against overwhelming odds by a band of devoted freemen, ensured the liberty of Greece for centuries. It has thrilled and inspired the world both before and after Byron. It is a part of the Greek heritage which no tyranny, not even the Nazi, can wipe out.

Such memories encouraged the Greeks to drive out Mussolini's army, and now to struggle against Hitler. As a weapon for free men, one Marathon is worth a thousand tanks.

The North African news seems almost too good to be true. There have been so many of these back-and-forth scrimmages in the last couple of years it is hard to believe that this, at last, may really be it.

Blessed is the man who can still keep his business going.

PERSISTENT HOARSENESS

Some years ago I wrote of the warning of the Drs. Chevalier Jackson, Philadelphia, that allowing hoarseness to continue for more than two weeks without finding its cause was a serious mistake on the part of the patient and physician. A little hoarseness or change in the voice lasting a few days is not usually a serious matter as it may be due to a cold, sinus disturbance, overuse of voice, irritating vapors and other conditions and circumstances. But a persistent hoarseness or change in the tone of the voice should always be investigated. The use of friar's balsam—tincture of benzoin compound—breathed into the mouth and out the nose—usually gives relief in these simple conditions.

However, when the hoarseness continues it is a danger signal as one of the three dread diseases—tuberculosis, syphilis, cancer—may be present, only early treatment of which can save the patient's life.

An editorial on hoarseness by Dr. Francis L. Lederer, Chicago, recently appeared in Digest of Treatment, in which this same warning as to the danger to life of conditions causing hoarseness was given to patients and physicians.

Thus a physician even when he believes he has found the cause of the hoarseness must not be satisfied until he has made a thorough examination that rules out other causes, common or uncommon, that might also cause the persistent hoarseness. There is always the possibility that more than one cause is present. "This entails a careful history, careful indirect (mirror), and direct examination of the throat with the laryngoscope; a complete general examination particularly of the bronchial tubes and lungs; X-ray study of the sinuses, chest and neck; examination of the blood and sputum; and a removal of a specimen ot tissue to be examined for cancer."

Dr. Lederer further points out that two of the mistakes made are (a) thinking that cancer occurs only in old age, as ten per cent of the cases of cancer of the throat (larynx) occur in patients under 40, (b) that if a specimen of tissue is removed and it is cancer, that this removal of the specimen will cause the cancer to spread.

The belief that removal of a small piece of tissue will cause the cancer to spread has kept too many individuals from seeking relief from hoarseness or difficulty in swallowing.

It is with the idea of getting patients with persistent hoarseness to consult their physicians early that Dr. Lederer has written this special editorial.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The Myesotes Class of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church on January 3, 1928, presented the three-act comedy, "The Second Puncture," in Epworth Hall. The play proved a decided success.

Those in the cast included Arnetta Raschke, Evelyn Lasher, George Kennedy, Arthur K. Rice, Ralph DeGraff, Ruby Cure, Albert H. Shultis, Myron Hopper, Mary Raschke and Emma Palen.

I recall that on Sunday, January 15, 1928, the corner stone of the St. Paul Lutheran Church on Hasbrouck avenue, was laid with appropriate ceremonies. The sermon was preached by the Rev. B. Von Schenck of Hoboken, N. J., while the corner stone was laid by the Rev. Carl A. Romoser, pastor of the new church.

After 31 years in the millinery business on East Strand, Miss Mary E. Flynn of Stuyvesant street, retired the first of January, 1928. Many of the older residents will recall the Flynn millinery shop on the Strand.

It is also interesting to recall that the fire board met and organized for the year on January 10, 1928, by electing Louis Kolts as president. The other members of the board that year were David Burgevin and Harry B. Walker. The board also re-elected Andrew J. Murphy, Sr., the Strand stationery dealer, as secretary of the board.

One of the best known physicians in the years before the first World War was Dr. Frank Keator, who died in his home on St. James street on December 29, 1917, of pneumonia. At the time of his death Dr. Keator was a captain in the Medical Reserve Corps of the U. S. Army.

Henry D. Eltinge, who had served as superintendent of the city's fire alarm system for a number of years, filed his resignation in December, 1927, with the fire board to take effect January 1, 1928.

Mr. Eltinge had resigned to accept a position with the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp.

With Kingston now on a rationing program it is interesting to recall that lightless nights went into effect in the city on January 18, 1918, during the first World War, in order to conserve coal. One-half of the ornamental street lights from the Washington avenue viaduct to the Rondout creek were eliminated.

I also recall that former Recorder Andrew J. Lang was appointed acting principal of School No. 5, in January, 1918, to serve while Principal Frank L. Meagher was in army service.

Mr. Lang is now superintendent of schools in Huron, South Dakota, a position he has held for a number of years.

Rubber hose connections on the pump of the farm sprayer should be removed for winter, to prevent their being damaged by oil.

Psychological Warfare Has Gotten in Some Good Licks Within Last 24 Hours Under Lend-Lease Program

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 14—"Psychological warfare"—the term applied to the battle of morale—has risen to new heights of effectiveness in the last 24 hours with the announcement by the White House that food and clothing and arms would be furnished to the peoples of occupied areas under the Lend-Lease program of the United States government.

This is tantamount to saying to the people of Yugoslavia and Greece, France and Belgium and Holland, as well as the people of Italy and Austria and Germany and the Balkan states generally, that if they revolt they will get support.

Up to now such offers would have been futile, because the United States was in no position to deliver food or clothing or arms. But with supply bases on the southern coast of the Mediterranean and with cargo submarines and surface vessels able to make landings on the northern coast, the opportunity to smuggle munitions and food will be constantly increased.

The American army paved the way for winning the goodwill of the peoples of North Africa by a careful bit of psychological planning and now is making good its promises by supplying the things which have caused the people much suffering. With the American Army commanders possessing, as they do, control over many radio stations that broadcast in various languages, it will not be long before word spreads that the quickest way to prevent starvation and suffering, the quickest way to win back lost liberties is to cooperate with the American forces who are ready to get arms to those who wish to resist the Axis governments.

It may well be that revolutionary movements will start in Italy and Austria, because these areas are nearest to the American bases of operations. But the fact that America comes to liberate and feed and clothe the innocent peoples who have been persecuted by the Nazis will have a profound effect on the whole European situation.

For many months, experts in psychological warfare, those who have known intimately the inside situations in Germany and Italy, have been disappointed by the failure of the various war agencies in Washington to mobilize the best brains available to win over the German and Italian peoples. Some moves, such as the release from internment rules of the Italian residents of this country, have been excellent, but, on the whole, there has been little coordination of effort and little planning for the conquests that can be made by using this all important instrument of combat.

The short wave broadcasts from America have been in some respects to the point, but war agencies cannot make much progress on the psychological front unless there is a direction from the highest officials as to the nature of the pledges that can be made to enemy peoples.

Thus it is considered unnecessary by those who know Germany best to continue a propaganda of invective and denunciation, and that concrete evidence of good will toward the German people themselves, as distinguished from their gangster leaders, would be immensely helpful in producing the cleavage inside Germany which can shorten the war.

A British expert, resident here, who has known Germany well suggests, for instance, that American propaganda should do the following things:

1. Specifically differentiate between the Nazis or the Storm Troopers or the Elite Guard, on the one hand, and the Masses of the German people, on the other.
2. Specifically show that the governments in exile hold the same view of differentiation between the Nazis and the people.
3. Specifically promise the German people repeatedly that they will not be punished for the crimes of their Nazi chieftains and leaders.
4. Specifically state that the happiness and prosperity and economics helps which will flow out of the Atlantic charter are conditionally available to the German people.

It is further suggested that the United States, rather than any other government in the Allied group, is in the best position to make these pledges and see that they are kept.

More and more it is coming to be believed by those who know Germany best that the Nazi propaganda—arguing that Hitler has the German people behind him—is fallacious and that inroads can be made in central Europe by the proper psychological tactics accompanied by such splendid steps as now are being taken in North Africa under the Lend-Lease authority.

Literary Guide

By John Selby

James Norman Hall has written so much in collaboration will Charles B. Nordhoff that a great many people must believe he cannot function alone—or at least never does. These must read his "Under a Thatched Roof," which is a collection of independently produced essays, narratives, and such which are, some of them, as much as fifteen years old. There is not much of a thread through the book, unless it is the thread of Mr. Hall's personality. But the pieces are urbane and usually smiling, written often with the well known tongue in its frequently remarked resting place. And the book itself is handsome.

For a long time the late Della T. Lutes was much occupied in putting down the homely facts of life in homely surroundings as it used to be lived in a not too distant past. This week there is another book full of Father and Mother and the aunts and all the others, but particularly full of Cousin William. It's as warm as a wood-burning kitchen range, as sweet-smelling as the pies in the oven thereof. Cousin William looked like a draggled turkey gobbler, but he had his points.

Unless, like Hitler, the pleasures of the table are not much in your life your mouth will water when you read Louise Andrews Kent's "Mrs. Appleyards's Kitchen." This is a cookbook, but it is also a collection of sprightly comment on food and appetites and people. Experimenting with cookery is out of this department's range, but Mrs. Kent's recipes read as well as any I can remember.

The Christmas books are beginning to drop in, and probably the handsomest so far is Harry T. Peters' "Currier & Ives." This is a very large book, beautifully printed, and three-fourths of the prints—many in color. The text is as full of information as needful; Mr. Peters knows all about Currier & Ives. His book is good for any person not colorblind.

The Martha Dandridge whose second husband was the Father of his Country has not been over-written for unexplained reasons. Alice Curtis Desmond's Martha Washington: Our First Lady's is designed for "anyone from fifteen up," and oddly, it fits that description exactly. It is a very pleasant book.

REALLY HOLD THE BAG

Akron, O. (AP) — Left-handed monkey wrenches, striped paint, sky hooks and other classic items of fiction used in kidding new hands around a shop will have to move over and make room for a new array of wartime things that are factual but sound even stranger than the fictitious articles. A green hand at the rubber works, for instance, might think you were kidding him if you sent him to the stock room for a "hydrogen cell sack holder." But a review of new wartice products being made in rubber plants indicates such an errand would be strictly on the up-and-up. The hydrogen cell sack holder is used in a hardness-testing process for Army lard. Some other new items in the rubber-manufacturers' vocabulary are: TNT drain-off hose, oddment trays, brow pads, fulminate dumping tray, sight shields, and hypochlorite reservoir bags!

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — Wartime Capital: The recent elections produced some funny ones (both ha-ha and peculiar) but none stranger than the case of Senator Joseph H. Ball, Governor Stassen's senatorial righthand in Minnesota.

Senator Ball was appointed by Governor Stassen in October, 1940, to serve the unexpired term of the late Senator Lundeen. Coming up for re-election, Ball ran for the six-year term which starts in January, 1943, but he didn't run for the period between "the first general election" and the start of his new term. Arthur E. Nelson did and got elected. So Senator-elect Nelson will serve for a month or so and retire then in Senator Ball's favor.

This, of course, won't be any news to the folks in Minnesota, but maybe there's something they don't know. Senator Ball will lose his seniority on six important senate committees. And not only that, when he comes back in January, so far as seniority is concerned, he will be just another "freshman senator."

Somebody ought to pin a home front medal on Steve Vasilakos, the White House corner peanut vendor.

You remember Steve. He's the best known peanut man in the country. He's Greek, with recently acquired citizenship papers of which he is very proud. He's Washington's favorite street corner philosopher. (Probably his greatest observation was made when criticism of the President was running very high. Somebody asked Steve what he thought about things. "That man doesn't tell me how to sell peanuts; why should I tell him how to run the government.")

He's also a patriot who knows how to apply his patriotism. When AHEPA, the Greek society in America, launched a War Bond sales campaign, Steve announced he would give a sack of peanuts free with every bond bought from him.

The crowds around his stand on the White House corner got so thick that the Secret Service started an investigation. It was discovered Steve didn't have a license to peddle War Bonds on the street. That didn't stop Steve. He got a license a couple of days later and was back at the old stand for "business as usual."

Then Steve became ill and had to go to Emergency Hospital. But that didn't stop Steve either. Friends over the country and in Washington heard about it. They started mailing in orders for bonds. With the help of a pretty, dark-haired secretary, lent him by AHEPA, Steve is still doing business—and big.

Annual Meeting Held By Esopus Committee

The annual meeting of the Public Health Nursing Committee of the town of Esopus was held at the Health Center, Port Ewen, Mrs. Paul Bailey, president was in charge. Miss Elizabeth Meyers, Children's Worker of the Ulster County Public Welfare Department addressed the committee. She introduced her subject by saying that the health and social welfare of the individual reflects on the other members of the community.

Miss Meyers explained the work of the Children's Division of Public Welfare, stressing particularly the placement of children in foster homes. Several ways in which the Public Health Nursing Committee could assist in this work were discussed: first, by becoming aware of the types of children who need assistance, then referring them to the social worker. It is essential to know what constitutes a good foster home for neglected children and to make these facts known to the community. Not only is it necessary to realize the need of the neglected children but also to look for the underlying cause and if possible to correct them. In closing Miss Meyers said that the child is worth considerable to a community and that any service given to improve the health or social welfare of the children is an investment in citizenship.

The annual reports were read. The following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. Howard Markle, president; Mrs. Raymond O'Brien, vice president; Mrs. Loren LeFever, recording secretary; Mrs. Donald Tinnie, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles Schwab, treasurer.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personally of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.)

When Her Fiance's Family Live 2,000 Miles Away

A New York girl engaged to a Texas man, asks about writing to his mother. Her letter explains: "The man I am engaged to has been working here in the east for several years, but his family all live in Texas. He wrote them two weeks ago about our engagement but so far they have not answered him. He says they are very bad about writing and that I have nothing to fear about their not liking me. So I wonder if it is my place to write to his mother, or hers to write to me? I don't want to give the impression that I am breaking into her house, because I can't wait to be invited. What is the right etiquette?"

Although it is expected that the man's mother write first to his fiancee, so few people know whose obligation this is, it is never quite safe to take it for granted. My own suggestion is that you ask your fiance what he thinks his mother would want you to do. If he says "wait" then this is a definite answer. If he says he's sure she'd like to get a letter from you, then write by all means. Remember, Texas people are noted for their friendly kindness. For that matter, an appreciative letter about her son, is not likely to displease any mother.

Answering a Reader's "Why?"

Dear Mrs. Post: If a friend invites me to spend the week-end with her in a hotel, I am considered her guest and as such may let her pay my hotel bill. But suppose the friend happens to be a man who, let's say, invites me because he can afford to do so and because he has been entertained time and time again in my family's house. He has no family and he has no other place to invite me. Also, he knows staying in a big city hotel would be a treat to me. He would of course remain in his own bachelor apartment. I would be at the hotel alone. Yet, etiquette I am told, makes any such plan as I have outlined, impossible. Why?

Answer: There is no comparison between a woman friend and a man friend. To let a man pay the hotel bill of a woman alone, is impossible. But if you were chaperoned by another woman and her husband—making it a party of four—under such circumstances he could perfectly well be host to all three of you. But not possibly to you as set apart from them.

Two Women and a Man

Dear Mrs. Post: When a man goes to the theatre or to a concert or even to church, with two women, would it not be better if he sat between them?

Answer: Whenever they have aisle seats either in church or at the theatre or at a concert, he should sit on the aisle. Usually they of course enter the pew or row of seats ahead of him and he takes the aisle seat. But at the theatre when they are not sitting near the aisle, it is not unusual for the women to offer the seat between them to him so that he can talk to them both.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Introductions." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

The Kingston High School Camera Club will bring an old-time comedian Harold Lloyd back to K. H. S. in a side-splitting comedy entitled "The Cat's Paw." This a full-length, sound moving picture.

The proceeds from the program will go to the fund for a school service flag.

The comedy will be presented November 18, in the Kingston High School Auditorium.

The Michael School Dramatic Club will present the play "Don't Take My Penny" before two audiences on November 24 in the M. J. M. auditorium. The afternoon performance, will begin at 3:20.

Since each club in the school must prove that it is helping the war program in some way, the Senior Dramatic Club will select a play with a war theme and present it to the students. President Hilda May Kinch has appointed a committee to read and choose various plays, the best of which will be voted upon by the entire club. This committee consists of: chairman, Thatcher Wood; William Arnold, William Fitzgerald, Gloria Jaffer, and Janice Reben.

The "Scholastic" magazine is now publishing a series of plays, which emphasize the war-time theme. The committee will select one of these plays.

Kingston High School students will have an opportunity to participate in the current Red Cross drive by joining as Junior members.

This organization will be part of the present High School Victory Corps. Members will engage in work to aid the boys in the armed service:—in the camps, at the front, and in the hospitals. Boys will construct various articles for hospital comfort while the girls will sew, knit, fold surgical dressings and cook. Those students who are clever in art, will find a chance to show their skill.

In order that the school may take its share of war responsibility 100% student membership is the goal of this drive.

At a recent Senior meeting, Mrs. Helen E. Partlan, faculty advisor of the Maroon explained to those students who expect to join some branch of the armed services, how they could still receive their Maroon. If the prospective soldier, sailor, or marine deposits $1.10 with Mr. Vaughn and delegates someone to sell his tickets for the senior play, he will receive his 1943 Maroon regardless of where he is stationed. He is also entitled to have his picture in the Maroon.

The newly-formed Debating Society, headed by President Robert Lipgar, will journey to Highland to participate in a debate. The subject of the discussion will be "Resolved that the United Nations after the war should establish an international police force to prevent further acts of aggression." This debate will be the first of its kind since 1936 when the now defunct Webster-Hayne Debating Society made a series of discussions with other schools.

The bankers from each roll-call room in K. H. S. will solicit contributions for the annual Industrial Home collection. It is hoped that every student will contribute at least a five-cent piece; if this goal is reached, the entire collection will net more than $100.00.

The K. H. S. keglers, who have been competing for the past three weeks, have elected their officers for the season. William Crosby is president; Joseph Schiavone was named secretary, with Clyde Wonderly, treasurer.

'Avengers' to Fly Sunday in Salute To Local WarPlant

The squadron of Grumman "Avengers," and possibly some "Wildcats," which was due to fly in an exhibition-salute to employes of Electrol Incorporated last Sunday over Kingston Airport, will arrive tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, weather permitting.

Last Sunday's flight was canceled due to local ceiling conditions and yesterday it was announced by the Navy Department through Lieut. Commander Louis Haase that the squadron would arrive tomorrow.

Lieut. Commander Haase, inspector of Naval Aircraft at the Grumman Plant, Bathpage, L. I. who has arranged the air show, said the first part of the week he would do all in his power to reschedule the flight.

Last Sunday afternoon one of Kingston's largest open-air crowds was turned away disappointed when weather conditions caused cancellation of the exhibition.

'V' Home Campaign Is Now Well Underway

Deputy Chief Air Raid Warden Charles de la Vergne, today made the following statement: "The V-Home campaign is now well under way in the city of Kingston. The response to this campaign by all members of the Air Raid Warden's Service and the public is most satisfactory. The American people now know the meaning of total war. They realize that every member of every home in this country must contribute to the war effort in order to bring about final victory. The V-Home campaign brings this message to everyone. Under the leadership of our Air Raid Wardens, let the people of the city of Kingston demonstrate to our boys in the service, that we are doing our job on the home front!"

SHORT BECAUSE IT'S LIGHT

Washington (AP)—We're getting down to one daily cup of coffee because coffee beans, light and bulky, take up too much space for their weight in shipping. The average cargo vessel can carry only 70,000 bags of coffee, 132 pounds to the bag. The rest of the cargo must be in heavier goods for ballast. Our imports of coffee from Central and South America from July, 1941, to July, 1942, required about 2,000 cargo trips of freighters, according to the Office of War Information—and we haven't got all the freighters we had a year ago.

OFFICE CAT

TRADE MARK REG.

By Junius

It is a wise thing for bicycle riders to be careful.

Careful Mother—Did you ever allow a man to kiss you when you are out driving in a car with him?

Daughter (scornfully) — Of course not, mother. A man who can drive safely while kissing me isn't giving the kiss the attention it deserves.

Up to date, too late and too little has lost every battle.

Gerald—She is the image of her mother!

Friend—Yes, a talking picture!

Stop, Look, Listen

Joe didn't listen, look or stop!
They dragged his flivver to the shop,
It only took a week or two
To make the car look good as new;
But though they hunted high and low,
They found no extra parts for Joe.

Edith—Oh, he's so romantic! When he addresses me he always calls me "Fair Lady!"

Robert—Force of habit, my dear! He's a Bus Operator.

Gasoline stations are not "gravy" for robbers any more. They will have to go back to the banks.

Customer—These sleeves are a mile too long.

Tailor—Well, how much shall I take off?

Customer—Oh, I guess about a quarter of an inch.

Cheer

Cheer is a force that saves where wisdom often fails. Being cheerful with one's lot doesn't mean being content with it. Cheer sustains while pushing onward—contentment anchors fast. Cheerfulness is a habit of mind which, more than anything else, will help us realize our hopes because it makes hard work easy.

Cheerfulness is like God's great ocean. Bathe in it and all the surliness, cares and rust of life will disappear, a new vigor will quicken your pulse and your eyes be clear to view your fellowmen in their right perspective.

We talk about the home front being something indefinite and think only of the agencies engaged in our preparations for war. Yet it is something very definite.

It begins with every citizen of this country, with you and me, with our attitude toward and our efforts for war preparations and sacrifices.

What we are and do individually determines what we can and will do collectively to win the war.

Passenger—Will you help me off the bus?

Driver—Sure, but why?

Passenger—You see I'm stout and have to get off the bus backward. The passengers getting on the bus think I'm trying to get on and give me a shove on again. I'm five towns past my destination now.

God Will Guide You

God will guide you,
Simply trust Him,
He knows what is best for you;
Stop outlining and repining,
Wait and see what He will do.

God will guide you,
Love and serve Him,
Like a child obedient be;
Kindness voicing, keep rejoicing,
His good purpose you will see.
—Grenville Klaiser

WORKED FOR SCRAP

Washington (AP) — Abandoned quarries are being worked for scrap metal wherever practicable, according to the Office of War Information. A Michigan quarry holds 31 years' accumulation of dumped autos, streetcars from a dismantled electric railway, car wheels and trucks, heavy copper wire, a three-ton pumping engine with its boiler, and tons of other metal.

He believes in training himself as he does his soldiers. His key words for training are thoroughness and efficiency. He is making that training pay dividends.

He is Lieut. Gen. Bernard Law Montgomery, C.B., D.S.O., commander of the British Eighth Army. A soldier for 33 years, Montgomery had been in Egypt only three weeks last summer when he was called on to command the Eighth and stop Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's push towards Alexandria.

The general was born November 17, 1887, son of a clergyman. He married in 1927 and his wife died 10 years later; they had one son. Lanky and austere, Montgomery is a teetotaler and non-smoker who has led a Spartan life.

His military career began as an infantry officer in 1908. In World War I he was wounded twice. In 1931 the general rose to command of his regiment, the 1st battalion of the Royal Warwickshires. Six years later he went to the Staff College at Quetta, India, as an instructor.

Montgomery was in command of the Third Division when the B.E.F. went to France in World War II, then in December, 1941, with the threatening cloud of invasion near took as general officer commanding the vital home front southeastern command.

He trains his men hard, said once: "There is only one standard of fitness—the standard of total war."

WHAT IT MEANS

Allied Shipping Magic

By JOHN GROVER

If the north African campaign is a success, as now seems indicated, Lieut. Gen. Dwight (Ike) Eisenhower will go down as a "shipbuilder" whose exploits take precedence over the miracles performed by Henry J. Kaiser.

In one swoop, Gen. Eisenhower will have virtually doubled the size of the whole Allied merchant marine. The importance of this dramatic easing of the critical shipbuilding problem to all fronts cannot be overestimated.

Shipping has been the really desperate focal point of our whole war effort, by official admission. The terrific distances involved in moving supplies to the southwest Pacific, to the India-Burma theatre and to the Middle East have had the war planners gray-headed with worry. Despite magnificent achievements by U. S. shipbuilders, the need for cargo space has always been ahead of available bottoms.

The American landings in north Africa, if expanded to actual control of the south shore of the Mediterranean, mean a whole fleet of "new" vessels created overnight for the further garrisoning and supplying of all world fronts.

It sounds like magic on a global scale, but actually it's a matter of simple arithmetic.

The closing of the Mediterranean as a regular military supply route vastly complicated the problem of Allied munitions and troop transport. It required from five to seven times as many ships to carry the same quantity of goods and men around Africa to the Middle East as over the route through the Mediterranean.

It is something over 13,000 miles from England around the Cape of Good Hope to Suez. It is somewhat more than 2,000 miles from England to north Africa. The distance from the U. S. east coast to Suez is 14,000-plus miles, but from the U. S. to Casablanca is 3,200 miles.

Control of the south shore of the middle sea would permit use of it again as a supply lane. With Allied air bases scattered along that shore, the convoys could proceed under a canopy of planes with less risk than Russian-bound

In addition to a saving of an expert-estimated 75 per cent in the number of ships needed to service the Allied troop-munitions pool in the Middle East, the requirements of the England-India run would be cut one-third.

What this means to the furtherance of Allied offensives is obvious. Scores on scores of freighters would be released for supplementing the present service of supply to Australia, to Russia and to Alaska, all three of which have suffered by reason of ship shortages which did not permit the movement of arms already fashioned and waiting at dockside for transport.

There is evidence that the surprise offensive had this relief of overworked Allied shipping as its primary purpose. The strategic import of the campaign, in its relation to future offensives directed at the Axis southern exposure, cannot be minimized. The immediate advantages in shipping, however, will be the first great gain if Gen. Eisenhower completes his mission.

KAISER HISTORY

Vancouver, Wash. (AP) — Louis Lee, Chinese-American, has a job as "industrial historian" recording the war effort in shipbuilding. Lee is staff protographer for the Kaiser Company shipyards. He's photographed the day-to-day progress of the Vancouver Kaiser yards since it was a pasture full of cud-chewing dairy cattle last spring. Lee was a waiter until somebody gave him a cheap camera. Hhen he became a complete camera nut. Lee is rated now as one of the most adept industrial photographers on Pacific Coast.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 14, 1942.

'TIS AN ILL WIND

There's an old saying to the effect it's an ill wind that blows nobody good. This is true of the present automobile and traffic situation. There has been a great deal of complaint over the country because of the shortage of gasoline and rubber. It was found necessary to reduce the national speed average to thirty-five miles per hour. The rubber and oil situation certainly is neither a comforting nor a desirable one.

But now comes the silver lining to the cloud. There was a reduction of twenty-four per cent in the motor-vehicle casualties of the nation for the first three months of the year, according to a report recently made public by the National Safety Council. The total casualties were 21,290 compared with 27,900 for the same period last year, a saving of 6,600 lives. The curtailing of traveling in the western part of the country beginning this month is expected further to cut down the fatalities.

For example, such fatalities in September this year were forty per cent less than the record shows for the same month in 1941. August showed a drop of 43 per cent over the preceding year. As rationing spreads the record is expected to get even better. According to Sidney J. Williams, director of public safety for the Council:

"The fact that the September reduction was no greater than in August indicates that larger decreases in travel and accidents may not be forthcoming until rationing is extended throughout the nation. When all travel is rationed it is possible that the death toll will be only half what it was in the latter months of 1941."

In the Eastern seaboard states during the first three months of the year before gasoline rationing went into effect travel had decreased six per cent from the first three months of 1941. But after rationing went into effect the decrease was 29 per cent. By August the travel in the Eastern states was down 37 per cent over August 1941.

Of course nobody wants rationing of gasoline and rubber to continue indefinitely. Our civilization is now built on wheels. With our widely-flung country and our greater centers of population, modern civilization could scarcely survive as it is were the automobile suddenly to be eliminated. The automobile, despite traffic fatalities, has been a great boon.

What we are most interested in is curtailing not the automobile, but fatalities due to motor travel. It seems this can best be done by wise regulation and a campaign of education. Perhaps this rationing will convince people that while their cars are almost an essential we can get along with less travel than we thought. But more important if the thirty-five mile an hour limit teaches drivers they can get places as quickly and more surely by a reasonable rate of speed then indeed rationing will be worth all the discomforts it is causing the country.

RISING POWER

The government's plans for mobilization of American fighting power now call for an army of 9,700,000 men, in round numbers 10,000,000. It is a larger force than most experts have thought necessary or possible. But since the dispatch of that incredible American army to North Africa, with so short a time for preparation, civilians can only look on admiringly and assume that the men in charge know what they're doing.

At the same time civilians will have to be humping to do their part of the big job. It is hardly less important than that of the fighting forces, though much safer. The more men there are under arms, the more raw materials must be fed into the factories and the more finished munitions must pour out. It takes far more workers to produce the armament than there are fighting men to use it. The productive capacities of this nation will be strained more than they have ever been before.

So longer working hours are inevitable. And for God's sake, no more strikes! There are adequate means of settling disputes without quitting work. With all those American fighting men to be supplied in Europe and throughout the world, any strike interfering with the production and dispatch of munitions would be little less than treason.

KNOWING LATIN AMERICA

For neighbors so near to each other, the United States and Latin America have remained on surprisingly strange terms. Our out-of-country interests have pointed east to Europe, and the same is true of the South American. The wealthy Uruguayan or Brazilian has visited Paris 20 times to one trip to New York.

This mutual lack of knowledge should be remedied. Sharing this opinion, an enterprising public library has just opened a special Latin American room, where books and information of all kinds on our southern neighbors will be available. Librarians who have specialized in these countries will be in attendance.

Ignorance of South America may be explained, but in these days when South Americans and ourselves stand together against a common enemy, it cannot be excused.

MARATHON

"The mountains look on Marathon,
And Marathon looks on the sea;
And musing here an hour alone,
I dreamed that Greece might still be free."

So wrote the poet Byron a century and a quarter ago. The victory of Marathon, won against overwhelming odds by a band of devoted freemen, ensured the liberty of Greece for centuries. It has thrilled and inspired the world both before and after Byron. It is a part of the Greek heritage which no tyranny, not even the Nazi, can wipe out.

Such memories encouraged the Greeks to drive out Mussolini's army, and now to struggle against Hitler. As a weapon for free men, one Marathon is worth a thousand tanks.

The North African news seems almost too good to be true. There have been so many of these back-and-forth scrimmages in the last couple of years it is hard to believe that this, at last, may really be it.

Blessed is the man who can still keep his business going.

PERSISTENT HOARSENESS

Some years ago I wrote of the warning of the Drs. Chevalier Jackson, Philadelphia, that allowing hoarseness to continue for more than two weeks without finding its cause was a serious mistake on the part of the patient and physician. A little hoarseness or change in the voice lasting a few days is not usually a serious matter as it may be due to a cold, sinus disturbance, overuse of voice, irritating vapors and other conditions and circumstances. But a persistent hoarseness or change in the tone of the voice should always be investigated. The use of friar's balsam—tincture of benzoin compound—breathed into the mouth and out the nose—usually gives relief in these simple conditions.

However, when the hoarseness continues it is a danger signal as one of the three dread diseases—tuberculosis, syphilis, cancer—may be present, only early treatment of which can save the patient's life.

An editorial on hoarseness by Dr. Francis L. Lederer, Chicago, recently appeared in Digest of Treatment, in which this same warning as to the danger to life of conditions causing hoarseness was given to patients and physicians.

Thus a physician even when he believes he has found the cause of the hoarseness must not be satisfied until he has made a thorough examination that rules out other causes, common or uncommon, that might also cause the persistent hoarseness. There is always the possibility that more than one cause is present. "This entails a careful history, careful indirect (mirror), and direct examination of the throat with the laryngoscope; a complete general examination particularly of the bronchial tubes and lungs; X-ray study of the sinuses, chest and neck; examination of the blood and sputum; and a removal of a specimen of tissue to be examined for cancer."

Dr. Lederer further points out that two of the mistakes made are (a) thinking that cancer occurs only in old age, as ten per cent of the cases of cancer of the throat (larynx) occur in patients under 40, (b) that if a specimen of tissue is removed and it is cancer, that this removal of the specimen will cause the cancer to spread.

The belief that removal of a small piece of tissue will cause the cancer to spread has kept too many individuals from seeking relief from hoarseness or difficulty in swallowing.

It is with the idea of getting patients with persistent hoarseness to consult their physicians early that Dr. Lederer has written this special editorial.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The Myesotes Class of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church on January 3, 1928, presented the three-act comedy, "The Second Puncture," in Epworth Hall. The play proved a decided success.

Those in the cast included Arnetta Raschke, Evelyn Lasher, George Kennedy, Arthur K. Rice, Ralph DeGraff, Ruby Cure, Albert H. Shultis, Myron Hopper, Mary Raschke and Emma Palen.

I recall that on Sunday, January 15, 1928, the corner stone of the St. Paul Lutheran Church on Hasbrouck avenue, was laid with appropriate ceremonies. The sermon was preached by the Rev. B. Von Schenck of Hoboken, N. J., while the corner stone was laid by the Rev. Carl A. Romoser, pastor of the new church.

After 31 years in the millinery business on East Strand, Miss Mary E. Flynn of Stuyvesant street, retired the first of January, 1928. Many of the older residents will recall the Flynn millinery shop on the Strand.

It is also interesting to recall that the fire board met and organized for the year on January 10, 1928, by electing Louis Kolts as president. The other members of the board that year were David Burgevin and Harry B. Walker. The board also re-elected Andrew J. Murphy, Sr., the Strand stationery dealer, as secretary of the board.

One of the best known physicians in the years before the first World War was Dr. Frank Keator, who died in his home on St. James street on December 29, 1917, of pneumonia. At the time of his death Dr. Keator was a captain in the Medical Reserve Corps of the U. S. Army.

Henry D. Eltinge, who had served as superintendent of the city's fire alarm system for a number of years, filed his resignation in December, 1927, with the fire board to take effect January 1, 1928.

Mr. Eltinge had resigned to accept a position with the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp.

With Kingston now on a rationing program it is interesting to recall that lightless nights went into effect in the city on January 18, 1918, during the first World War, in order to conserve coal. One-half of the ornamental street lights from the Washington avenue viaduct to the Rondout creek were eliminated.

I also recall that former Recorder Andrew J. Lang was appointed acting principal of School No. 5, in January, 1918, to serve while Principal Frank L. Meagher was in army service.

Mr. Lang is now superintendent of schools in Huron, South Dakota, a position he has held for a number of years.

Rubber hose connections on the pump of the farm sprayer should be removed for winter, to prevent their being damaged by oil.

Psychological Warfare Has Gotten in Some Good Licks Within Last 24 Hours Under Lend-Lease Program

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 14—"Psychological warfare"—the term applied to the battle of morale—has risen to new heights of effectiveness in the last 24 hours with the announcement by the White House that food and clothing and arms would be furnished to the peoples of occupied areas under the Lend-Lease program of the United States government.

This is tantamount to saying to the people of Yugoslavia and Greece, France and Belgium and Holland, as well as the people of Italy and Austria and Germany and the Balkan states generally, that if they revolt they will get support.

Up to now such offers would have been futile, because the United States was in no position to deliver food or clothing or arms. But with supply bases on the southern coast of the Mediterranean and with cargo submarines and surface vessels able to make landings on the northern coast, the opportunity to smuggle munitions and food will be constantly increased.

The American army paved the way for winning the goodwill of the peoples of North Africa by a careful bit of psychological planning and now is making good its promises by supplying the things which have caused the people much suffering. With the American Army commanders possessing, as they do, control over many radio stations that broadcast in various languages, it will not be long before word spreads that the quickest way to prevent starvation and suffering, the quickest way to win back lost liberties is to cooperate with the American forces who are ready to get arms to those who wish to resist the Axis governments.

It may well be that revolutionary movements will start in Italy and Austria, because these areas are nearest to the American bases of operations. But the fact that America comes to liberate and feed and clothe the innocent peoples who have been persecuted by the Nazis will have a profound effect on the whole European situation.

For many months, experts in psychological warfare, those who have known intimately the inside situations in Germany and Italy, have been disappointed by the failure of the various war agencies in Washington to mobilize the best brains available to win over the German and Italian peoples. Some moves, such as the release from internment rules of the Italian residents of this country, have been excellent, but, on the whole, there has been little coordination of effort and little planning for the conquests that can be made by using this all important instrument of combat.

The short wave broadcasts from America have been in some respects to the point, but war agencies cannot make much progress on the psychological front unless there is a direction from the highest officials as to the nature of the pledges that can be made to enemy peoples.

Thus it is considered unnecessary by those who know Germany best to continue a propaganda of invective and denunciation, and that concrete evidence of good will toward the German people themselves, as distinguished from their gangster leaders, would be immensely helpful in producing the cleavage inside Germany which can shorten the war.

A British expert, resident here, who has known Germany well suggests, for instance, that American propaganda should do the following things:

1. Specifically differentiate between the Nazis or the Storm Troopers or the Elite Guard, on the one hand, and the Masses of the German people, on the other.

2. Specifically show that the governments in exile hold the same view of differentiation between the Nazis and the people.

3. Specifically promise the German people repeatedly that they will not be punished for the crimes of their Nazi chieftains and leaders.

4. Specifically state that the happiness and prosperity and economics helps which will flow out of the Atlantic charter are conditionally available to the German people.

It is further suggested that the United States, rather than any other government in the Allied group, is in the best position to make these pledges and see that they are kept.

More and more it is coming to be believed by those who know Germany best that the Nazi propaganda—arguing that Hitler has the German people behind him—is fallacious and that inroads can be made in central Europe by the proper psychological tactics accompanied by such splendid steps as now are being taken in North Africa under the Lend-Lease authority.

Literary Guide

By John Selby

James Norman Hall has written so much in collaboration will Charles B. Nordhoff that a great many people must believe he cannot function alone—or at least never does. These must read his "Under a Thatched Roof," which is a collection of independently produced essays, narratives, and such which are, some of them, as much as fifteen years old. There is not much of a thread through the book, unless it is the thread of Mr. Hall's personality. But the pieces are urbane and usually smiling, written often with the well known tongue in its frequently remarked resting place. And the book itself is handsome.

For a long time the late Della T. Lutes was much occupied in putting down the homely facts of life in homely surroundings as it used to be lived in a not too distant past. This week there is another book full of Father and Mother and the aunts and all the others, but particularly full of Cousin William. It's as warm as a wood-burning kitchen range, as sweet-smelling as the pies in the oven thereof. Cousin William looked like a draggled turkey gobbler, but he had his points.

Unless, like Hitler, the pleasures of the table are not much in your life your mouth will water when you read Louise Andrews Kent's "Mrs. Appleyards's Kitchen." This is a cookbook, but it is also a collection of sprightly comment on food and appetites and people. Experimenting with cookery is out of this department's range, but Mrs. Kent's recipes read as well as any I can remember.

The Christmas books are beginning to drop in, and probably the handsomest so far is Harry T. Peters' "Currier & Ives." This is a very large book, beautifully printed, and three-fourths of the prints—many in color. The text is as full of information as needful; Mr. Peters knows all about Currier & Ives. His book is good for any person not colorblind.

The Martha Dandridge whose second husband was the Father of his Country has not been overwritten for unexplained reasons. Alice Curtis Desmond's Martha Washington: Our First Lady's is designed for "anyone from fifteen up," and oddly, it fits that description exactly. It is a very pleasant book.

REALLY HOLD THE BAG

Akron, O. (AP) — Left-handed monkey wrenches, striped paint, sky hooks and other classic items of fiction used in kidding new hands around a shop will have to move over and make room for a new array of wartime things that are factual but sound even stranger than the fictitious articles. A green hand at the rubber works, for instance, might think you were kidding him if you sent him to the stock room for a "hydrogen cell sack holder." But a review of new wartice products being made in rubber plants indicates such an errand would be strictly on the up-and-up. The hydrogen cell sack holder is used in a hardness-testing process for Army lard. Some other new items in the rubber-manufacturers' vocabulary are: TNT drain-off hose, oddment trays, brow pads, fulminate dumping tray, sight shields, and hypochlorite reservoir bags!

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — Wartime Capital: The recent elections produced some funny ones (both ha-ha and peculiar) but none stranger than the case of Senator Joseph H. Ball, Governor Stassen's senatorial righthand in Minnesota.

Senator Ball was appointed by Governor Stassen in October, 1940, to serve the unexpired term of the late Senator Lundeen. Coming up for re-election, Ball ran for the six-year term which starts in January, 1943, but he didn't run for the period between "the first general election" and the start of his new term. Arthur E. Nelson did and got elected. So Senator-elect Nelson will serve for a month or so and retire then in Senator Ball's favor.

This, of course, won't be any news to the folks in Minnesota, but maybe there's something they don't know. Senator Ball will lose his seniority on six important senate committees. And not only that, when he comes back in January, so far as seniority is concerned, he will be just another "freshman senator."

Somebody ought to pin a home front medal on Steve Vasilakos, the White House corner peanut vendor.

You remember Steve. He's the best known peanut man in the country. He's Greek, with recently acquired citizenship papers of which he is very proud. He's Washington's favorite street corner philosopher. (Probably his greatest observation was made when criticism of the President was running very high. Somebody asked Steve what he thought about things. "That man doesn't tell me how to sell peanuts; why should I tell him how to run the government.")

He's also a patriot who knows how to apply his patriotism. When AHEPA, the Greek society in America, launched a War Bond sales campaign, Steve announced he would give a sack of peanuts free with every bond bought from him.

The crowds around his stand on the White House corner got so thick that the Secret Service started an investigation. It was discovered Steve didn't have a license to peddle War Bonds on the street. That didn't stop Steve. He got a license a couple of days later and was back at the old stand for "business as usual."

Then Steve became ill and had to go to Emergency Hospital. But that didn't stop Steve either. Friends over the country and in Washington heard about it. They started mailing in orders for bonds. With the help of a pretty, dark-haired secretary, lent him by AHEPA, Steve is still doing business—and big.

Sugar Rationing Adds Interest to Bee-Keeping

Wide World Features

Los Angeles—Sugar rationing is adding fresh interest to the ancient business of bee-keeping.

A cup of honey has more sweetness than a cup of granulated sugar in the ration of 9 to 7. It contains roughly twice the calory value of sugar.

Interest in small backyard apiaries is considerable, reflecting an axiom of the honey trade that when sugar is scarce, honey booms. On the commercial side this means wide use by bakers, and at home its substitution for sugar in many ways.

In advising amateur bee-keepers, J. E. Eckert, University of California expert, tackles at the start the matter of getting stung.

"The sting of the honey bee generally hurts even the seasoned bee-keeper," he concedes. "However, immunity to the poison can be acquired gradually, until the effect is not noticeable after the first few minutes."

Bee-keeping is so standardized after centuries of experience that you buy bees by the package. A "three-pound package" sells for about $4 and contains some 15,000 bees.

A dozen odds and ends needed to start a single back-yard hive cost about $12. These include such specialties as the "smoker," "hive tool" and "queen excluder," and the important folding veil to protect the face.

Authorities stress the importance of having a superior queen for the hive, since she lays the eggs and determines the type of offspring.

In California, revenue from honey and beeswax is often augmented by renting bee colonies to orchardists, as bees are sometimes priceless in cross-pollinating the fruit trees.

McIntosh and Cortland are among the best varieties of apples for baking, as well as for eating fresh.

Dr. I. J. Harris To Be Speaker

South African Rabbi Is to Be at Synagogue

Dr. Israel Jacob Harris of Bloemfontein, Union of South Africa, will speak at the Congregation Ahavath Israel Sunday evening at a good will hour that will start at 8 o'clock that night.

Rabbi Harris is said to be an interesting speaker. He received his education in his native country, receiving his B. A. degree in Semitic languages at the University of Wit Witer, Strond-Johannesburg, South Africa, and his M. K. degree in applied psychology at the University of South Africa. He came to this country to do graduate work at Columbia University where he completed his doctorate in the field of Semitic languages.

Simultaneously with his secular education Rabbi Harris pursued his religious studies at the Yeshive College Theological Seminary where he was ordained as rabbi. He was professor of Hebrew and applied phychology at the University of St. Andrews and St. Davies College in South Africa.

Rabbi Harris was spiritual leader in the city of Bloemfontein and is a cousin of Sal Harris, who was mayor of that city, and later the governor of the Orange Free State in South Africa. Another interesting phase of his activities is his research work on the author of the legend of the Galem, Rabbi Low of Prague, who was the philosopher of religion and education.

The theme of Rabbi Harris's address will be "National Life and Human Brotherhood."

Sunday morning at 10 o'clock he will meet the children of the congregation in the vestry hall of Congregation Ahavath Israel when he will tell them about the children in South Africa and show them colorful pictures of that land of mystery.

Notices just placed in stores limit hosiery sales to the hours of 11:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m., but only stockings in gunmetal and black remain.

Annual Meeting Held By Esopus Committee

The annual meeting of the Public Health Nursing Committee of the town of Esopus was held at the Health Center, Port Ewen, Mrs. Paul Bailey, president was in charge. Miss Elizabeth Meyers, Children's Worker of the Ulster County Public Welfare Department addressed the committee. She introduced her subject by saying that the health and social welfare of the individual reflects on the other members of the community.

Miss Meyers explained the work of the Children's Division of Public Welfare, stressing particularly the placement of children in foster homes. Several ways in which the Public Health Nursing Committee could assist in this work were discussed: first, by becoming aware of the types of children who need assistance, then referring them to the social worker. It is essential to know what constitutes a good foster home for neglected children and to make these facts known to the community. Not only is it necessary to realize the need of the neglected children but also to look for the underlying cause and if possible to correct them. In closing Miss Meyers said that the child is worth considerable to a community and that any service given to improve the health or social welfare of the children is an investment in citizenship.

The annual reports were read. The following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. Howard Markle, president; Mrs. Raymond O'Brien, vice president; Mrs. Loren LeFever, recording secretary; Mrs. Donald Tinnie, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles Schwab, treasurer.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.)

When Her Fiance's Family Live 2,000 Miles Away

A New York girl engaged to a Texas man, asks about writing to his mother. Her letter explains: "The man I am engaged to has been working here in the east for several years, but his family all live in Texas. He wrote them two weeks ago about our engagement but so far they have not answered him. He says they are very bad about writing and that I have nothing to fear about their not liking me. So I wonder if it is my place to write to his mother, or hers to write to me? I don't want to give the impression that I am breaking into her house, because I can't wait to be invited. What is the right etiquette?"

Although it is expected that the man's mother write first to his fiancee, so few people know whose obligation this is, it is never quite safe to take it for granted. My own suggestion is that you ask your fiance what he thinks his mother would want you to do. If he says "wait" then this is a definite answer. If he says he's sure she'd like to get a letter from you, then write by all means. Remember, Texas people are noted for their friendly kindness. For that matter, an appreciative letter about her son, is not likely to displease any mother.

Answering a Reader's "Why?"

Dear Mrs. Post: If a friend invites me to spend the week-end with her in a hotel, I am considered her guest and as such may let her pay my hotel bill. But suppose the friend happens to be a man who, let's say, invites me because he can afford to do so and because he has been entertained time and time again in my family's house. He has no family and he has no other place to invite me. Also, he knows staying in a big city hotel would be a treat to me. He would of course remain in his own bachelor apartment. I would be at the hotel alone. Yet, etiquette I am told, makes any such plan as I have outlined, impossible. Why?

Answer: There is no comparison between a woman friend and a man friend. To let a man pay the hotel bill of a woman alone, is impossible. But if you were chaperoned by another woman and her husband—making it a party of four—under such circumstances he could perfectly well be host to all three of you. But not possibly to you as set apart from them.

Two Women and a Man

Dear Mrs. Post: When a man goes to the theatre or to a concert or even to church, with two women, would it not be better if he sat between them?

Answer: Whenever they have aisle seats either in church or at the theatre or at a concert, he should sit on the aisle. Usually they of course enter the pew or row of seats ahead of him and he takes the aisle seat. But at the theatre when they are not sitting near the aisle, it is not unusual for the women to offer the seat between them to him so that he can talk to them both.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Introductions." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Suspended Sentence in Illicit Liquor Case

New York, Nov. 13 (Special)—A suspended sentence was given Edward Pasker in United States District Court here today when he was arraigned before Judge Simon H. Rifkind for his connection in Gardiner with the huge illicit distilling business which was headed by Abe Joseph and Dominick Laviano.

Pasker pleaded guilty to the charges in 1939 but had never been brought in for sentence because of his poor health. His connection with the bootleggers was that he allowed them to use his farm to set up a 10,000-gallon still.

Franklin Schriver, his attorney, told Judge Rifkind that Pasker has been leading an exemplary life and has an otherwise unblemished record.

Pasker was one of 45 indicted in 1939 on charges of defrauding the government of $15,000,000 through the operation of a number of wildcat stills in Ulster and Orange counties. Most of the defendants pleaded guilty and served jail terms.

Compressed Sugar Cane Is Used to Replace Lumber

Compressed sugar cane siding will be substituted for lumber in new buildings to be constructed at the recruit reception centers at Camp Lee, Va., Capt. E. M. Killough, post supply officer, announced.

Captain Killough reported that 18 barracks, officers' quarters and a warehouse will be added to present facilities at the reception center, and all will be constructed with substitute material. The new material is being used to conserve lumber, and is one of the best insulating materials known. Captain Killough reported that: "It is widely used in the building trades industries for insulating purposes and its use in exterior siding has been made possible by a coating, or by a surface of stone chips to make it withstand weather."

It was said that use of the material also will add to the appearance of the buildings compared to the tar paper siding, which would normally be used.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, to all persons who owe money to the Reliable Plumbing Supplies! Please come and make arrangements for paying at once or we will be forced to turn over bills for collection.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK—IN THE MATTER of MOLLY BLACK and SIDNEY BLACK, joint debtors, in proceedings under Section 75 of the Bankruptcy Act. Stalin Has High Praise For U. S., British Push tain relief in pressure on the Soviet Union will result in the nearest future.

What Matters First

"But that is not the only thing that matters. What matters first of all is that since the campaign in Africa means that the initiative has passed into the hands of our allies, the campaign changes radically the political and war situation in Europe in favor of the Anglo-Soviet-American coalition; that that campaign undermines the prestige of Hitlerite Germany as a leading force in the system of the Axis powers and demoralizes Hitler's allies in Europe; that the campaign released France from her state of lethargy and mobilizes anti-Hitler forces of France and provides a basis for building up an anti-Hitler French army; that the campaign creates conditions for putting Italy out of commission and for isolating Hitlerite Germany; finally, that the campaign creates the prerequisites for establishment of a second front in Europe nearer to Germany's vital centers which will be of decisive importance for organizing victory over Hitlerite tyranny.

"Three. What possibility is there of Soviet offensive power in the east joining the allies in the west to hasten the final victory?

"Answer. There need be no doubt that the Red army will fulfill its task with honor as it has been fulfilling it throughout the war.

"With respect, (signed) J. Stalin."

This second letter from Stalin, which will be published on the front pages of Russian newspapers today, was twice as long as the first one on October 3. It was handed to me last midnight by Nikolai Palgunov, chief of the press department of the foreign commissariat, a little more than 24 hours after I had submitted my questions.

It was typed neatly on plain, white paper without a letterhead, but this time the signature, "with respect, J. Stalin," was written in Stalin's hand with blue crayon. The earlier letter was signed with a stamp in violet ink.

The letter gave the first direct, authoritative Soviet comment on the allied campaign in North Africa, although the press had been following the progress of these operations with obvious satisfaction.

In his first letter to me, Stalin said that allied aid had been of little effect compared to Soviet contributions to the conduct of the war and called upon the allies to fulfill their obligations fully and promptly. He said a second front was of paramount importance.

How to cut the cost of Heating Your Home

BY John Barclay

AMERICA'S HOME HEATING EXPERT

Odors In the House

A COMPLAINT sometimes encountered during the heating season is the odor of fumes from the burning coal entering the basement or living quarters. All fuels generate gas when they are ignited. It is this gas that is generated in the furnace and its failure to escape up the chimney that causes an odor which can permeate the whole house. In the case of fumes in the basement, check up on the following:

1. Correct operation of dampers: The turn damper should never be used for daily operation of the furnace. It is usually set in a position so that sufficient heat is transferred upstairs. After it is once set, it is seldom necessary to change its position thru-out the burning season. The check and draft dampers should always be operated together. When sufficient heat is obtained upstairs, the check is opened and the draft damper is closed. When heat is wanted, the draft is opened and the check damper is closed.

2. Correct location for check damper: The check damper should always be located in the smoke pipe between the turn damper and the chimney. It is incorrect to locate it between the heater and the turn damper, as fumes can easily pass through and into the basement when this damper is opened.

3. Turn damper closed too tightly: If the turn damper is closed too tightly a back pressure will build up in the heater and cause the gases to seep into the basement. Do not have this damper closed too tightly, but have it placed in the position to control the burning speed of the coal.

4. Tight fitting furnace doors: Make sure that all doors on the heater fit tightly. If they do not there is a possibility of gas escaping when the heater is put on bank.

5 Condition of smoke pipe: Make sure the smoke pipe is in good condition. If it is full of rust spots there is a possibility that it in turn may be full of minute pin holes. This condition not only will cause insufficient and weak draft but may be the reason for gas odors in the basement.

6. A clean heating plant: All heating plants should be vacuum cleaned at least once a year. If this is not done there may be a sizeable accumulation of fly ash in the flue that will obstruct the draft passages. Not only will the fire burn sluggishly but the gas being unable to pass through the chimney will have a tendency to back up into the basement.

7. Operation of fire door: The fire door should only be opened when it is necessary to put on additional fuel. It should never be used as a damper. Many times it is left open to bank the fire. There is a great possibility that gases may seep into the basement through this open fire door. With the correct size check damper properly located, the firing door should never have to be used for banking purposes.

8. Correct methods of firing: When the correct methods of firing are used there is never a possibility of coal fumes backing into the basement. Carry the fire, more or less, level with the bottom of the firing door and always leave a red spot of coals exposed in front to act as a pilot light and help consume the gases.

9. Down draft: Sometimes a down draft condition may exist where the draft actually blows downward through the chimney. This is sometimes due to incorrect chimney design. The advice and suggestions of your fuel dealer will aid in eliminating this condition.

Sometimes in the case of hot air furnace installations the odor of fumes may rise upward with the warm air stream being fed through the warm air pipes directly into the rooms upstairs. Generally this is caused by leaks around joints and cracks in the fire pot. To locate this trouble check up on the joints where the fire door is attached to the outside casing of the furnace. Check on cracks in the door of the furnace or in the sections in the combustion chamber or where the sections join each other. Sometimes fumes are carried into living quarters through the opening in the return duct in the basement when cellar air is circulated. By all means if the trouble can not be located immediately get in touch with your local fuel dealer and follow his recommendations. (12)

Deer Season Will Begin on Sunday

Will Be Legal Game Until Monday, November 30

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 14 (AP)—Long bows will twang in Westchester and Rockland counties tomorrow, when the deer season opens in eastern New York. Deer shooting in the Adirondacks began Nov. 1.

Only bowmen may pursue deer in Westchester, but in Rockland sportsmen also may use shotguns of not less than 20-gauge, firing shells carrying a single ball or slug.

Hunters in Columbia, Greene, Delaware, Dutchess, Orange, Otsego, Rensselaer, Schoharie, and Ulster counties also make deer and bear their quarry tomorrow. Deer will be legal game until Nov. 30 and bear until Dec. 15.

With fewer hunters out than last year, the conservation department reports only one killed by gunfire to date. Several have met indirect death through hunting and a number have been hurt.

SCANTA CLAUS RATIONED

Santa Claus will be rationed when he arrives in Scotland this year. Restrictions on raw materials and reduced labor available will limit output of Christmas stockings to 25 per cent of last year's supply. Only one out of 16 children will get stockings from Santa Claus, it is reported in Edinburgh. They will cost 5 per cent more and will contain wooden or paper toys and, because of rationing, no candy.

Lightweight Crown Is on Merry-Go-Round Again; 12,249 Fans at Bout

By SID FEDER

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—Hold your hats, boys—the lightweight merry-go-round is off the track again.

After 2½ years of spinning around in a nice, neat ring—through the rise of Sammy Angott to the 135-pound throne—the merry-go-round is on the screwy circle once more after the retirement of swarthy Sammy yesterday and the seven-round technical knockout victory Beau Jack scored last night over No. 1 challenger Allie Stolz because of a cut eye.

14,249 See Fight

Naturally, Sammy's abdication did the most toward making the merry-go-round look as much like a true circle as the three-cornered shawl your aunt Emma wears. But Jack helped a lot. It wasn't only that he held Stolz, a 5 to 12 favorite, off for the seven completed rounds of last night's Madison Square Garden shindig, for the entertainment of 14,249 paying customers. But when the State Athletic Commission's ringside physician ordered the bout halted, Allie's ailments were not regarded sufficiently severe for such drastic action.

As a matter of fact, another commission physician looked at the two cuts over the curly-haired Newark walloper's left eye later in his dressing room, and thought they didn't look "particularly dangerous."

But it still goes down in the books as a seven-round "T. K. O." for the one-time Augusta (Ga.) National Golf Course bootblack, and throws the lightweight lawn party into a wide-open brawl with "every man for theirself."

Between Angott's retirement and last night's tete-a-tete, it was generally admitted that the lightweight lace doily was a matter for argument strictly between Stolz and another Jerseyan, Tippy Larkin of Garfield, who boasts that he's beaten welterweight boss Red Cochrane five times.

May Be Rematched

But with Jack's victory, especially since you can get yourself tangled up in a nice, cozy rough-and-tumble if you want to argue about it, anything can happen now. And from the way the powers-that-be are looking at it, anything will. Among the possible decisions are:

1—Return bout between Stolz and Jack.

2—A "title" tussle featuring Jack and Larkin, suggested for December 18 in the Garden, about which the two commissions—N. B. A. and New York State—are in a "well, we'll see" state.

3—A lightweight elimination, putting Jack, Larkin, Stolz and Cleo Shans, the Los Angeles negro, into the pot together to see who comes out—(provided, of course, that Shans gets by Richie Lemos, the ex-featherweight boss, in Holyoke, Mass., Monday).

Out of all this, of course, Angott is getting a lot of fun. You remember, they laughed when the little family man from Washington (Pa.) walked in to clear up the 135-pound division once before, when no one thought he could.

They'll positively be in stitches when the boys who are left try to do it again. Especially Stolz, who almost took Sammy's title away in a fight last May, and now is wondering just what Jack used that made him look like a cross between a windmill puncher and the Chicago Bears' backfield charging last night.

Maybe it was the $10,000 that Jack and his manager guaranteed Allie for last night's production. Ten-thousand can probably put a lot of steam in the engine.

Millner Knows the Answer

Notre Dame, Ind. (AP)—Fellow members of Notre Dame's football coaching staff delight in ribbing Wayne Millner, end coach, about the 73 to 0 victory scored by the Chicago Redskins a couple of years ago when Millner was playing left end for the Redskins. Millner answers all questions with the assertion: "If we had scored first, it would have been different—it would have been 73 to 7!

Chicago (AP) — George Halas, the Chicago Bears' coach, was granted a lieutenant commander's commission in the Navy on two conditions: (1) that he would not be stationed near Chicago and (2) that he have nothing to do with coaching.

Lakehurst Tries Football

Lakehurst, N. J. (AP)—The Lakehurst Naval Air Station never had a football team before this season. But the eleven developed by Coach Mal Elward, former Purdue mentor, already has won recognition as one of the east's strongest service teams.

Karam Is Hopeful For First Victory Of 1942-1943 Year

All Servicemen Will Be Admitted Free; Bucs Are Listed to Play in Preliminary Game

With the opening of the 1942-43 professional basketball season at the municipal auditorium only four days off, the Kingston Recreation committee announces that a great many of last year's fans already have requested reserved seat accommodations for the new campaign. The committee, incidentally, expects a good early season turnout for the contest Wednesday night when the Long Island Clippers will appear here.

Servicemen Come Free

Sid Lutzin had a couple of important announcements this morning when talking with a Freeman writer. He announced that all servicemen will be admitted free of charge to the game Wednesday night. Tickets must be secured at the Servicemen's Center on Broadway. Lutzin also said that Larry Epstein, American League referee, would be on hand to officiate the game.

After a few weeks' of practice in New York gymnasiums, Manager "Turk" Karam, well-known sports figure in this town, declared yesterday that he believed the current edition of the Recs would get a severe test when the Clippers from Long Island come in Wednesday night. "The Clippers have a well-balanced team," Karam said, "and they have a great fellow in Lou Figari at the helm. Kingston fans who come to the auditorium Wednesday will see what I believe will be a first class early season basketball thriller."

While the Clippers will offer some outstanding basketball talent in Jake Ahearn, former Detroit Eagle star; Jerry Rizzo, "Gentleman" Jim Buckley, and others, Manager Karam's rejuvenated squad of newly-acquired players should take the floor at even odds to turn back the visitors.

Favorites to Play

The Recreations' roster was completed by Karam the latter part of this week and Karam waxed confidence when he was able to sign Herb Gershon and Ace Goldstein to the roster. "These two stars should pack a lot of strength for our team," remarked the Brooklyn Dodger official. Besides Gershon and Goldstein, two American League favorites, Karam signed Nick Shaback, Jim Naughton, Hagen Anderson, Howie Bollerman and "Porky" Rosen.

Speaking of Bollerman, Karam added, "Howie was a disappointment to Kingston fans last year but I'm pretty positive that the big blond center will prove to be a big help to the team this season. Howie has started early practices and says that he's ready for a big season."

Kingston fans will be glad to get another look at Shaback and Anderson, two stars who helped Kingston to get back on the professional bandwagon last year. Shaback, a young and aggressive ball player, was a big help in the offensive department in 1941-42 and with another season under his belt, should prove to be even stronger. Anderson needs no introduction. To name him as one of last year's most popular stars, would be putting it mildly. Hagen gives Kingston one of its best defensive ball players and he also breaks into the scoring column when the opportunity presents itself.

Preliminary Game

The Buccaneers and Forsts will meet in the preliminary Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. The main attraction is listed for 9 o'clock.

Owen Discusses Neale

Discussing last week-end's visit to Philadelphia, where the Eagles' coach, Greasy Neale, collapsed after the New York Giant game, Stout Steve Owen remarked soberly: "I always knew I would see one of us coaches go that way. I have felt like that myself. But Neale was all right—he was cursing me and my Giants as he crawled into the ambulance."

Trip by Boat

The Detroit Lions will do their part toward relieving wartime transportation and housing problems this week by making their trip to Cleveland on a large steamer. The boat also will serve as their hotel and will tie up one block from the Cleveland stadium.

Baker Will Play

Conway Baker, veteran Chicago guard who suffered a concussion in the Redskin game at Washington last week, will be ready to face Pittsburgh on November 22, the Cardinals' next league game, doctors have informed Coach Jimmy Conzelman.

Carr After Bandits

Joe Carr, business manager of the Pittsburgh Steelers, is pressing Detroit police for arrest of the two negro holdup men who stabbed him in the arm outside the Steelers' hotel last week. Carr is anxious to check up on the damage his left hook to the nose did to one of the bandits.

Endurance Record Snaps

Chuck Cherundolo, Pittsburgh Steeler center, who had played 416 out of 420 minutes before last week's game in Detroit, had gone 21 consecutive quarters without relief before he was given a rest in the second half against the Lions.

SHORT BECAUSE IT'S LIGHT

Washington (AP)—We're getting down to one daily cup of coffee because coffee beans, light and bulky, take up too much space for their weight in shipping. The average cargo vessel can carry only 70,000 bags of coffee, 132 pounds to the bag. The rest of the cargo must be in heavier goods for ballast. Our imports of coffee from Central and South America from July, 1941, to July, 1942, required about 2,000 cargo trips of freighters, according to the Office of War Information—and we haven't got all the freighters we had a year ago.

It is a wise thing for bicycle riders to be careful!

Careful Mother—Did you ever allow a man to kiss you when you are out driving in a car with him?

Daughter (scornfully) — Of course not, mother. A man who can drive safely while kissing me isn't giving the kiss the attention it deserves.

Up to date, too late and too little has lost every battle.

Gerald—She is the image of her mother!

Friend—Yes, a talking picture!

Stop, Look, Listen

Joe didn't listen, look or stop!
They dragged his flivver to the shop,
It only took a week or two
To make the car look good as new;
But though they hunted high and low,
They found no extra parts for Joe.

Edith—Oh, he's so romantic! When he addresses me he always calls me "Fair Lady!"

Robert—Force of habit, my dear! He's a Bus Operator.

Gasoline stations are not "gravy" for robbers any more. They will have to go back to the banks.

Customer—These sleeves are a mile too long.

Tailor—Well, how much shall I take off?

Customer—Oh, I guess about a quarter of an inch.

Cheer

Cheer is a force that saves where wisdom often fails. Being cheerful with one's lot doesn't mean being content with it. Cheer sustains while pushing onward—contentment anchors fast. Cheerfulness is a habit of mind which, more than anything else, will help us realize our hopes because it makes hard work easy.

Cheerfulness is like God's great ocean. Bathe in it and all the surliness, cares and rust of life will disappear, a new vigor will quicken your pulse and your eyes be clear to view your fellowmen in their right perspective.

We talk about the home front being something indefinite and think only of the agencies engaged in our preparations for war. Yet it is something very definite.

It begins with every citizen of this country, with you and me, with our attitude toward and our efforts for war preparations and sacrifices.

What we are and do individually determines what we can and will do collectively to win the war.

Passenger—Will you help me off the bus?

Driver—Sure, but why?

Passenger—You see I'm stout and have to get off the bus backward. The passengers getting on the bus think I'm trying to get on and give me a shove on again. I'm five towns past my destination now.

God Will Guide You

God will guide you,
Simply trust Him,
He knows what is best for you;
Stop outlining and repining,
Wait and see what He will do.

God will guide you,
Love and serve Him,
Like a child obedient be;
Kindness voicing, keep rejoicing,
His good purpose you will see.
—Grenville Kleiser

He believes in training himself as he does his soldiers. His key words for training are thoroughness and efficiency. He is making that training pay dividends.

He is Lieut. Gen. Bernard Law Montgomery, C.B., D.S.O., commander of the British Eighth Army. A soldier for 33 years, Montgomery had been in Egypt only three weeks last summer when he was called on to command the Eighth and stop Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's push towards Alexandria.

The general was born November 17, 1887, son of a clergyman. He married in 1927 and his wife died 10 years later; they had one son. Lanky and austere, Montgomery is a teetotaler and non-smoker who has led a Spartan life.

His military career began as an infantry officer in 1908. In World War I he was wounded twice. In 1931 the general rose to command of his regiment, the 1st battalion of the Royal Warwickshires. Six years later he went to the Staff College at Quetta, India, as an instructor.

Montgomery was in command of the Third Division when the B.E.F. went to France in World War II, then in December, 1941, with the threatening cloud of invasion near took as general officer commanding the vital home front southeastern command.

He trains his men hard, said once: "There is only one standard of fitness—the standard of total war."

WIVES IN INDUSTRY

London (AP)—More than 2,500,000 married women have been employed in British war industries, Labor Minister Bevin told the House of Commons.

Many chines of the south coast of England, which is closed because of the danger from mines, have been adopted as sanctuaries by birds.

Venezuela produced 29,417 carats of diamonds, mostly industrial types valuable to the war efforts, last year, more than double the 1940 output.

Patrolmen Give $2,058 to Local Christmas Cheer

The Mayor's Christmas Cheer Committee organized for the year on Friday afternoon at a meeting held with Mayor William F. Edelmuth at the city hall when Mrs. Christopher P. Roche was named chairman of the committee and Fred Schoonmaker of the Rondout National Bank was chosen to serve as secretary.

Mayor Edelmuth at the organization meeting reported that the first donation to be received was from the Kingston Patrolmen's Association who had presented him with a check for $2,058, part of the proceeds of the Newburgh-Kingston police departments' baseball game on July 13, of this year.

The check was presented to the mayor by a committee from the Patrolmen's Association composed of Captain James V. Simpson, President Joseph P. Fallon and Lieutenant Ernest Boss, shortly before the Christmas Cheer committee met and organized.

The committee also presented the mayor with a communication signed by the committee on baseball team in which it stated that the association take great pride and interest in the youth of the city, and derive much satisfaction from the spirit of friendship and good will that exists between the children and the police.

Single Manpower Head Considered

tration supporter who asked that his name not be used, pointed out that all selective service authority is vested in the President and that Mr. Roosevelt had created the present war manpower commission by executive order.

Several legisaltors expressed hope that, if Mr. Roosevelt creates a new over-all manpower agency he could persuade Bernard M. Baruch to head it. There also was speculation that the chief executive might turn this problem over to James F. Byrnes, the new economic director.

The present war manpower commission, headed by Paul V. McNutt, was criticized by the senate defense committee for failure to formulate a national manpower policy—a criticism that has been echoed privately in inner administration circles and publicly in the senate by Chairman Pepper (D.-Fla.) of a labor committee also inquiring into the problme.

Herman S. Wells, 75, Dies; Former Sheriff of County, Noted G.O.P. Figure

Herman S. Wells, 75, for years one of the most prominent residents of Ulster county, died at 7:30 o'clock this morning in his home in Ellenville, following an illness of several months. Funeral services will be held from the home on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Surviving are his widow, the former Miss Cora Schoonmaker; two brothers, William Wells of Saugerties and John Wells of New York city; a sister, Mrs. Alice Tucker of Connecticut, and a half sister, Mrs. Everett Becker of Saugerties.

Mr. Wells is a former sheriff of Ulster county, and for years was Republican leader in the town of Wawarsing, serving as a member of the village board, and as mayor of Ellenville for several years.

Mr. Wells was born in Stone Ridge April 23, 1867. When he was seven months old his parents moved to High Falls, where later he attended public school. He was early interested in the realities of life, however, for at the age of 12 years he was working as a lock-tender at old No. 16 lock on the Delaware & Hudson canal at High Falls. He worked there for two seasons and then for two years was employed as clerk in the store of Thomas Snyder, a well known High Falls merchant.

Meanwhile Mr. Well had taken a course of instruction in telegraphy and leaving the Snyder store he was engaged for two years by the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company as telegraph operator. Such was his proficiency that in 1886 he was transferred to Ellenville, where he was made manager of the telegraph office there for the canal company and the Western Union, which position he retained for a quarter of a century.

His activity and enterprise were demonstrated by the fact that during three years, in addition to taking care of the work of his office and conducting a news and stationery store, he built, owned and operated telephone lines which gave service to the people of Southern Ulster for many years. He also acquired control of the Delaware River Telephone and Telegraph Co., which operated in all Sullivan and part of Delaware county, becoming its president and treasurer.

In 1911, Mr. Wells disposed of his telephone interests to the New York Telephone Co., at the same time resigning from the Western Union management and engaged in the automobile business.

For some years he was also interested in the granite and marble business, in the well known firm of Ryan & Wells. He also had been engaged as superintndent of construction on county highways.

Mr. Wells served two terms as a member of the Board of Supervisors. His first term was in 1908-09, and the second 1932-33.

He was elected sheriff of Ulster county on the Republican ticket and served from 1924-26. For years he was Republican leader of the town of Wawarsing.

Always interested in firemanic matters he was a prominent member of Scorsby Hose Co., of Ellenville for years. For fifteen years he was also a member of the famous Clayton Band of Ellenville.

Fraaternally Mr. Wells was a member of Wawarsing Lodge, F. & A. M., Wawarsing Chapter, R. A. M., Rondout Commandery and Cyprus Shrine of Albany. He had also been a member for many years of Awosting Lodge, Knights of Pythias.

Beats All Axis In Steel Output

U. S. Is Now Shown Far Ahead of Best Enemy Nations Can Produce.

WASHINGTON. — Production of steel in the United States is far ahead of the best the Axis nations can do, according to the War Production board's iron and steel branch.

Axis steel production, including the German-controlled countries of Europe was about 74,000,000 ingot tons in 1941 whereas this country produced 82,927,557 tons last year and will top 86,000,000 tons this year.

More than 75 per cent of the country's steel output of 5,300,000 tons a month, is now going into direct war use and the remainder into such essential industries as railroad machinery manufacture, and the like, David F. Austin, acting chief of the iron and steel branch said. He added that 80 per cent of the steel being produced is being delivered on ratings A-1-A, or higher.

Record Since 1938.

The 5,300,000 tons a month currently being delivered represents finished steel products, a reduction of about 30 per cent from ingot production of more than 7,000,000 tons.

In terms of plates and shapes, sheets, bars, pipe, wire, rails, and the like, the United States this year will turn out about 62,000,000 tons. This is slightly more than 70 per cent of the 86,000,000 ingot tons the nation is expected to produce. The remaining 30 per cent goes back into the furnaces in the form of scrap.

This is the way the nation's ingot production has grown since 1939:

1939: 52,798,714 net tons.
1940: 66,982,686 net tons.
1941: 82,927,557 net tons.
1942: 86,000,000 net tons (estimated).

To make this increased production possible, steel-making capacity, as distinct from actual production, has been stepped up correspondingly. At the end of 1939, it was 81,000,000 tons; 1940, 84,000,000; 1941, 88,000,000. By the end of 1942 capacity probably will reach 93,000,000 tons and by mid-1943, 98,000,000.

In addition to the use of tremendous quantities of steel for weapons of war, considerable allotments also are going abroad into necessary construction, including hangars for airplanes, soldiers' housing, submarine nets and a wide variety of other products. Huge quantities also are required here for the building of new war plants and other essential requirements in connection with the war.

Balanced Program Sought.

"The problem of steel, then, is one of proper scheduling and planning in order to come out even on a well-balanced war production program," Mr. Austin said. "We want to make just as many tank guns as we need for tanks, no more and no less. And that goes for everything else.

"Scheduling has been a tough problem so far. After Pearl Harbor we roared out to make all of everything we could. We stopped the production of civilian articles so there was plenty of steel available for every factory for a while. Now the time has come when the program must be brought into balance. It's just now that we must make our 5,000,000 tons of production fit a demand of around 9,000,000 tons a month."

Buddies of 1918 Meet At Project Pass Gate

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.—Vernon Hollinshead, a deputy sheriff on guard at a California defense project, asked a worker to show his pass before permitting him to enter.

Recognition flashed simultaneously on the faces of the motorist and Hollinshead when the pass was produced. The driver was Manuel Maciel, of Sacramento, Hollinshead's buddy in France 25 years ago.

Both were buglers in the Seventh division, 247th field artillery. They had not seen each other since their war days.

Beach Umbrella Is Used To Screen Shop Robbery

PHILADELPHIA.—A beach umbrella is the latest addition to burglar equipment.

Thieves put up the umbrella in front of a store and went to work screened from the view of passersby. They cut out a panel in the door, climbed into the store and stole a radio, school supplies, candy and cigarettes.

They got the umbrella from a lawn in front of the store.

Grangers Receive F.D.R.'s Message

Praises Farmers' Work This Year; Asks for More in Future

By ARTHUR E. BURGESS

Wenatchee, Wash., Nov. 14 (AP)—President Roosevelt told the nation's Grangers today, in a special message to their 76th national convention, that "in this war, the need for American food and other farm products is almost without limit."

"This year American farmers made a magnificent response to the demands upon them," the President said in a message to the Grange master, Albert S. Goss. "Those demands are increasing; so are the obstacles in meeting them.

"The rural families of the United States face many sacrifices, many difficulties. The nation looks to them to produce the food we need to win this war, and to fulfill all their other wartime obligations as citizens. As in the past, the great farm organizations have a large place in helping farmers work together for victory."

In a message as one Granger to another—the President has been a member of the Chapel Corners Grange in Dutchess county, New York, for 27 years—the Chief Executive expressed the belief that "in all its long history, the national Grange never has met at a time when the nation depended more upon its farmers, and farmers faced so many grave decisions. I say this in the knowledge that the Grange was born in the very shadow of the Civil War x x x."

The President's message shared convention interest with a sharply critical report on the synthetic rubber situation by E. T. Taylor, chairman of the Grange's potent transportation committee.

Denouncing what he charged were obstacles placed in the way of synthetic rubber development by selfish interests, Taylor, master of the Idaho State Grange, reported that a new and secret process had been devised.

He said the process was "just about as simple as dropping some potatoes, wheat or beans in a kettle, adding some gelatin, cooking it a while and then putting on your new tires and driving away."

The secret process, Taylor said, has been offered to the War Production Board and "would eliminate even the necessity of making alcohol in the process, but so far we have had no encouragement."

He stressed these contentions:

One bushel of wheat, currently selling for about one dollar could make two 6:00-16 tires, or seven recaps, or 3.2 gallons of alcohol.

The process would produce synthetic rubber at less than 10 cents a pound.

Production from farm products could be started in one-third the time it would take under the petroleum process. The cost and the use of critical materials would be only half as much.

The California Winery Association has offered its idle plants and machinery, with an annual capacity of 100,000,000 gallons of alcohol, to a non-profit organization to bring about production of synthetic rubber.

The Tri-State Industrial and Synthetic Rubber Association, a new organization of farmers, civic, industrial and education groups, is ready to start production whenever the government gives a "go ahead" signal.

Taylor charged that "the greed of the rubber, petroleum and industrial alcohol industries," fearing post-war competition, was blocking development of the synthetic rubber processes.

On the New Guinea front, northwest of Guadalcanal, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that Australian troops advanced two and one-half miles to envelop another Japanese position after counting 700 to 800 enemy killed in previous encirclements.

Latest reports from the battlefront said the Australians were pressing forward rapidly toward the main Japanese invasion base at Buna, 120 miles across the Papua peninsula from Port Moresby.

Pilot Found

Capt. William T. Cherry, Jr., pilot of the plane in which Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and other officers disappeared in the Pacific, was rescued November 12, the army announced. Hope was expressed that others from the plane might be floating on life rafts in the vicinity.

Navy Rescues Ed Rickenbacker

czyk who was with them died several days ago and was buried at sea.

"Lieutenant James C. Whitaker, Lieutenant John J. De Angelis and Staff Sergeant James Reynolds, all of the United States army who were also aboard the missing plane, have been located by a Catalina flying boat ashore on a small island in the south Pacific.

"With the rescue of Captain William T. Cherry, United States army, this makes all the personnel of the Rickenbacker party accounted for."

The rescue of Cherry was announced yesterday. The War Department said that, although weakened by about three weeks exposure to sun and sea he was "in good condition."

Cherry was the pilot of the plane, which was carrying Rickenbacker to the war zone for a survey of air force operations for Secretary of War Stimson.

The famous World War flier's party had been last heard from October 21 when a radio message came through saying the plane had only about one hour's supply of gasoline.

In the long days of uncertainty which followed that message, American ships and planes swept over hundreds and hundreds of square miles of the south Pacific looking for the little rubber boats or other evidences of the presence of the Rickenbacker party.

Second High Adventure

This was the second time in recent years that Rickenbacker, who shot down a score of German planes in France in the last great war, has encountered high adventure and great danger as a result of aerial mishap. Two years ago he survived the crash of an airliner near Atlanta, Ga., although some others among the passengers and crew at that time were killed. Rickenbacker was severely injured then.

Through the long days of waiting this time two persons typified America's hope that Rickenbacker would yet be saved.

His wife had said: "Eddie will turn up. He's too old a hand to get lost in any airplane now."

Stimson had commented that Rickenbacker was "an exception to ordinary rules."

The Catalina flying boat which found Captain Rickenbacker and his army flight companions in the south Pacific is the type of plane of which the navy has relied most heavily for scouting and patrol in all the war zones where the navy maintains bases or outposts.

Wife's Statement

Rickenbacker's wife issued the following statement from her New York home:

"I have just been advised by General H. H. Arnold of my husband's rescue. Of course the tension we all have been under began being relieved yesterday by the discovery of Capt. William T. Cherry, Jr., pilot of the ship.

"As stated before, my belief in the resourcefulness of this wonderful group of men, to say nothing of the constant prayers of Eddie's thousands of admirers and friends, would make it possible for them to withstand the strain until the War Department's thorough and efficient search brought about their ultimate rescue.

"I can't speak too highly of the wonderful cooperation of the army and navy and wish I could thank every one who participated personally. I have not a doubt in my mind about the wonderful reception given them by the men on that rubber raft when they were found."

Six Persons Die In Kaiser Blaze; 40 Others Burned

Vancouver, Wash., Nov. 14 (AP)—A fire which started in a wastebasket and "seemed to explode all over the room" killed at least six persons and burned 40 others as it levelled a two-story wooden dormitory at the Henry J. Kaiser shipyard here last night.

A search of the smouldering ruins continued today in the fear more bodies might be discovered. Shipyard officials had no idea just how many persons were trapped by the sudden blaze, and the only list of occupants was destroyed with the building.

Deputy Sheriff Fred Greenwood said he noticed smoke while on an inspection tour, and traced it to a linen storage room.

As he opened the door, the fire, already burning briskly in the wastebasket, flashed up.

"It seemed to explode all over the room," Greenwood said.

"I didn't even have a chance to sound the fire alarm. I ran down the hall as fast as I could and the fire was right at my heels. I thought of the fellows upstairs and I ran up to warn them.

"The fire got there almost as soon as I did. I shouted to Charley Dick, and he ran down one wing, warning everybody and I took the other wing. But the fire came so fast that I could only shout, 'Fire', and pound on the doors as I went past. Some of the men were asleep in their rooms. They didn't have a chance."

Six bodies, burned beyond recognition, were taken out after the flames subsided. None of the injured was burned gravely.

Officials said the building housed 320—80 of them women—but that not more than half would have been inside at the time. Some of the occupants were recruited recently in New York.

Poachers Active In Mountains

Troopers Ask People Who Hear Shots to Report

Numerous cases of hi-jacking of deer in the Phoenicia and Mt. Tremper section are reported. Troopers Raymond Dunn and Frank Maish said this morning that they have come across half a dozen or more carcasses of deer that have been shot and left lying in the woods. One of the latest finds was that of a good sized buck, its body filled with buckshot. The animal apparently had gone on some distance after being shot and the night hunter who did the deed either lost the animal in the dark or was afraid to follow the trail.

Troopers are hampered in their efforts to apprehend these lawbreakers, by the fact that in many cases, persons who hear the shots do not report the matter to the state police until it is too late to do much about it.

Elephant Chase Goes On

Huntington, Ind., Nov. 14 (AP)—The chase after Modoc, the two-ton female elephant who refused to act like a lady, was still on today after more than 60 hours of weary bush-beating by circus roustabouts, police, farmers and others, including the governor of Indiana. The elusive elephant, who broke from her handlers Wednesday at Wabash, and took to the Wabash river bottomlands after a brief but destructive tour through town, meandered over to Huntington yesterday where Gov. Henry F. Schricker joined the hunt for a short while but gave up to keep a speaking engagement.

Will Use Plain English

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration broke with tradition today by putting one of its orders into plain English. The order, which incidentally revised the price ceiling on industrial wooden boxes, was explained by O.P.A. as a first step in a continuing effort to put price regulations in "a simple narrative and explanatory style." Besides omitting legal phraseology, the order is completely rearranged to present the scope and operation of the new ceiling in "logical" fashion, O.P.A. said.

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Here are answers, based upon official statements and estimates, to questions on the effect of the teen-age draft bill:

Q. How many 18 and 19-year-olds will be eligible for military service?

A. Approximately 2,400,000 registered last June 30 and another 1,800,000 who have reached 18 since then or will do so during the next year will probably be registered January 1, 1944.

Q. Will they all be drafted?

A. No. Many of the June 30 registrants have already reached 20 and been inducted, many more have volunteered for the Army, Navy, Marines or Coast Guard or enrolled in Reserve units, many are physically unfit, and some will be deferred on occupational or dependency grounds.

Q. How many actually will enter the fighting forces?

A. About 800,000 to 900,000 physically fit men who have not volunteered are left over from the June 30 registrations, and about 1,275,000 other physically fit teen-agers should register during 1943. Most of them are expected to enlist or be drafted.

Q. How far will they go toward satisfying the foreseeable requirements of the military services?

A. They should furnish more than 2,000,000 of the 4,500,000 men needed by the end of next year to give the United States an Army of 7,500,000, a Navy of 2,500,000, and a Marine and Coast Guard strength of 700,000, making our total fighting forces 9,700,000.

Q. When will they start drafting 18 and 19-year-olds who already are registered?

A. That depends upon what advance preparations local draft boards have made to meet calls with older men and how quickly the boards classify teen-agers as ready for service. Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey estimated inductions could begin generally in 30 to 40 days after the President signed the bill.

Q. What about the 18-year-olds who haven't been registered and those who become 18 later?

A. Regulations for their registration will be issued by the President, who may set specific registration dates or provide that each youth shall register within a designated time after he reaches 18. After that, they will be subject to induction at the call of their draft boards.

Q. Will youths be taken out of school for the armed services?

A. Those in high school who are called during the last half of the school year may be deferred until next July 1 if they ask to finish out the year. Collegians in reserve units will not be drafted, but will remain subject to call to active duty at any time. Other collegians who are physically fit will be subject to induction.

Q. What will be the effect upon the colleges?

A. This hasn't received official clarification yet. Rep. Sparkman (D-Ala) said the Army would put selected men through college courses of nine to 27 months at government expense, making the selections after these men have been inducted. The Navy has not revealed its plans. Nearly 50 small colleges closed before the teen-age bill passed.

Q. What effect will the teen-age draft have on married men?

A. It will lessen the number of them drafted to the extent to which teen-agers are taken to meet Army calls. This could mean interruption or postponement of the calling of married men for two months or more, or greatly ease calls upon them for that period and lengthen such calls indefinitely. Generally speaking, it will practically assure married men with children that they will not be called before October 1, 1943, at the earliest.

WHAT IT MEANS

Allied Shipping Magic

By JOHN GROVER

If the north African campaign is a success, as now seems indicated, Lieut. Gen. Dwight (Ike) Eisenhower will go down as a "shipbuilder" whose exploits take precedence over the miracles performed by Henry J. Kaiser.

In one swoop, Gen. Eisenhower will have virtually doubled the size of the whole Allied merchant marine. The importance of this dramatic easing of the critical shipbuilding problem to all fronts cannot be overestimated.

Shipping has been the really desperate focal point of our whole war effort, by official admission. The terrific distances involved in moving supplies to the southwest Pacific, to the India-Burma theatre and to the Middle East have had the war planners gray-headed with worry. Despite magnificent achievements by U. S. shipbuilders, the need for cargo space has always been ahead of available bottoms.

The American landings in north Africa, if expanded to actual control of the south shore of the Mediterranean, mean a whole fleet of "new" vessels created overnight for the further garrisoning and supplying of all world fronts.

It sounds like magic on a global scale, but actually it's a matter of simple arithmetic.

The closing of the Mediterranean as a regular military supply route vastly complicated the problem of Allied munitions and troop transport. It required from five to seven times as many ships to carry the same quantity of goods and men around Africa to the Middle East as over the route through the Mediterranean.

It is something over 13,000 miles from England around the Cape of Good Hope to Suez. It is somewhat more than 2,000 miles from England to north Africa. The distance from the U. S. east coast to Suez is 14,000-plus miles, but from the U. S. to Casablanca is 3,200 miles.

Control of the south shore of the middle sea would permit use of it again as a supply lane. With Allied air bases scattered along that shore, the convoys could proceed under a canopy of planes with less risk than Russian-bound

In addition to a saving of an expert-estimated 75 per cent in the number of ships needed to service the Allied troop-munitions pool in the Middle East, the requirements of the England-India run would be cut one-third.

What this means to the furtherance of Allied offensives is obvious. Scores on scores of freighters would be released for supplementing the present service of supply to Australia, to Russia and to Alaska, all three of which have suffered by reason of ship shortages which did not permit the movement of arms already fashioned and waiting at dockside for transport.

There is evidence that the surprise offensive had this relief of overworked Allied shipping as its primary purpose. The strategic import of the campaign, in its relation to future offensives directed at the Axis southern exposure, cannot be minimized. The immediate advantages in shipping, however, will be the first great gain if Gen. Eisenhower completes his mission.

KAISER HISTORY

Vancouver, Wash. (AP) — Louis Lee, Chinese-American, has a job as "industrial historian" recording the war effort in shipbuilding. Lee is staff protographer for the Kaiser Company shipyards. He's photographed the day-to-day progress of the Vancouver Kaiser yards since it was a pasture full of cud-chewing dairy cattle last spring. Lee was a waiter until somebody gave him a cheap camera. Hhen he became a complete camera nut. Lee is rated now as one of the most adept industrial photographers on Pacific Coast.

Sugar Rationing Adds Interest to Bee-Keeping

Wide World Features

Los Angeles—Sugar rationing is adding fresh interest to the ancient business of bee-keeping.

A cup of honey has more sweetness than a cup of granulated sugar in the ration of 9 to 7. It contains roughly twice the calory value of sugar.

Interest in small backyard apiaries is considerable, reflecting an axiom of the honey trade that when sugar is scarce, honey booms. On the commercial side this means wide use by bakers, and at home its substitution for sugar in many ways.

In advising amateur bee-keepers, J. E. Eckert, University of California expert, tackles at the start the matter of getting stung.

"The sting of the honey bee generally hurts even the seasoned bee-keeper," he concedes. "However, immunity to the poison can be acquired gradually, until the effect is not noticeable after the first few minutes."

Bee-keeping is so standardized after centuries of experience that you buy bees by the package. A "three-pound package" sells for about $4 and contains some 15,000 bees.

A dozen odds and ends needed to start a single back-yard hive cost about $12. These include such specialties as the "smoker," "hive tool" and "queen excluder," and the important folding veil to protect the face.

Authorities stress the importance of having a superior queen for the hive, since she lays the eggs and determines the type of offspring.

In California, revenue from honey and beeswax is often augmented by renting bee colonies to orchardists, as bees are sometimes priceless in cross-pollinating the fruit trees.

NO-SHADOW LIGHT USED

War factories in Britain are being illuminated with artificial daylight that does not cast a shadow. Girls working in factories near London are making mercury vapor dischearge lamps, better known as daylight lamps, which are to be mass produced. Artificial daylight will be a boon to millions of factory workers who toil day and night by electric light.

Dr. I. J. Harris To Be Speaker

South African Rabbi Is to Be at Synagogue

Dr. Israel Jacob Harris of Bloemfontein, Union of South Africa, will speak at the Congregation Ahavath Israel Sunday evening at a good will hour that will start at 8 o'clock that night.

Rabbi Harris is said to be an interesting speaker. He received his education in his native country; receiving his B. A. degree in Semitic languages at the University of Wit Witer, Stroud-Johannesburg, South Africa, and his M. K. degree in applied psychology at the University of South Africa. He came to this country to do graduate work at Columbia University where he completed his doctorate in the field of Semitic languages.

Simultaneously with his secular education Rabbi Harris pursued his religious studies at the Yeshive College Theological Seminary where he was ordained as rabbi. He was professor of Hebrew and applied phychology at the University of St. Andrews and St. Davies College in South Africa.

Rabbi Harris was spiritual leader in the city of Bloemfontein and is a cousin of Sal Harris, who was mayor of that city, and later the governor of the Orange Free State in South Africa. Another interesting phase of his activities is his research work on the author of the legend of the Galem, Rabbi Low of Prague, who was the philosopher of religion and education.

The theme of Rabbi Harris's address will be "National Life and Human Brotherhood."

Sunday morning at 10 o'clock he will meet the children of the congregation in the vestry hall of Congregation Ahavath Israel when he will tell them about the children in South Africa and show them colorful pictures of that land of mystery.

HOSIERY LURES MOB

Women fought frantically in six-deep queues at Johannesburg, South Africa, when a new stock of hosiery was placed on sale. A one-pair limit failed to daunt purchasers, who merely detoured and sought to purchase more until a melee resembling a football scrimmage resulted. Notices just placed in stores limit hosiery sales to the hours of 11:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m., but only stockings in gunmetal and black remain.

OTHER WIVES HUNTED

Because a workman, a native of India, who was killed in his factory, was a Moslem, a firm in Nottingham, England, has withheld a workman's compensation payment and the case has been deferred for inquiries in India. A brother representing the wife and one child in England said that this was the only wife he knew of, but conceded that other wives might exist because a Moslem is allowed four wives.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Just Part of the Job

Columbus, Ind. — Miss Hazel Fodres, a teacher at Garfield School, was about to dismiss her first-grade class when she caught sight of a dog, evidently mad.

Ordering the children to remain in their seats, Miss Fodres ran to the nearby home of a friend, returned with a shotgun, killed the dog and went back into the classroom.

"You may go," she told the pupils.

Willing K.P.'s

Denver—Lieut. E. M. Stopher, Buckley Field mess officer, today started taking the names of volunteers for K.P. duty at the base Thursday, November 26.

Because of the expected rush, only the first 100 volunteering at each mess hall will be accepted.

Lieutenant Stopher explained that K.P.'s that day could eat all they wanted of the Thanksgiving Day menu.

Smart Birds

San Francisco—This would be the year for a plentiful supply of pheasants and quail.

"It'll be a good season all right," says H. Lyons, local game authority, "a good one for the birds."

But the sportsmen aren't happy. The war has brought a shortage of shotgun shells.

Rash Decision

Berkeley, Calif.—Twelve University of California girls held a party for 24 soldiers. They decorated the house with autumn foliage collected in the Berkeley hills.

Seven of the girls, under treatment for rash, know now that the pickers would have flunked botany.

The foliage was poison oak.

Popular Fire

Los Angeles—A drive-in restaurant got service when it started to burn yesterday.

The Los Angeles-Pasadena boundary passes through the middle of the building.

Firemen from both cities answered the call and divided the blaze between them.

On her 90th birthday, Mrs. M. Roth of Potchefstroom, South Africa, was congratulated by her 101 descendants, including 16 children.

Arizona highway patrol cars are equipped with cameras that record the speeds and license numbers of fast-driving motorists.

The report was referred to committee on county clerk.

On motion of Supervisor H. Snyder the board voted to solicit bids for printing the usual 1,000 copies of the proceedings of the board. Bids are to be in by November 30.

Supervisor Murray moved that sewer assessments be levied against property in the Wallkill sewer district. Over.

Before adjourning until Monday at 8 o'clock former Deputy Clerk Elliot Rogers and former Supervisor Ed Ashby, now in the service, were escorted to the platform and called upon for speeches. Mr. Rogers is now in the United States Navy and Mr. Ashby is in the Army. Both made brief speeches and wished the board best wishes for the season, saying that perhaps by the time holiday greetings were due they might be out on one of our far flung battlefronts.

Suspended Sentence in Illicit Liquor Case

New York, Nov. 13 (Special)—A suspended sentence was given Edward Pasker in United States District Court here today when he was arraigned before Judge Simon H. Rifkind for his connection in Gardiner with the huge illicit distilling business which was headed by Abe Joseph and Dominick Laviano.

Pasker pleaded guilty to the charges in 1939 but had never been brought in for sentence because of his poor health. His connection with the bootleggers was that he allowed them to use his farm to set up a 10,000-gallon still.

Franklin Schriver, his attorney, told Judge Rifkind that Pasker has been leading an exemplary life and has an otherwise unblemished record.

Pasker was one of 45 indicted in 1939 on charges of defrauding the government of $15,000,000 through the operation of a number of wildcat stills in Ulster and Orange counties. Most of the defendants pleaded guilty and served jail terms.

Compressed Sugar Cane Is Used to Replace Lumber

Compressed sugar cane siding will be substituted for lumber in new buildings to be constructed at the recruit reception centers at Camp Lee, Va., Capt. E. M. Killough, post supply officer, announced.

Captain Killough reported that 18 barracks, officers' quarters and a warehouse will be added to present facilities at the reception center, and all will be constructed with substitute material. The new material is being used to conserve lumber, and is one of the best insulating materials known. Captain Killough reported that: "It is widely used in the building trades industries for insulating purposes and its use in exterior siding has been made possible by a coating, or by a surface of stone chips to make it withstand weather."

It was said that use of the material also will add to the appearance of the buildings compared to the tar paper siding, which would normally be used.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, to all persons who owe money to the Reliable Plumbing Supplies! Please come and make arrangements for paying at once or we will be forced to turn over bills for collection.

Stalin Has High Praise For U. S., British Push

tain relief in pressure on the Soviet Union will result in the nearest future.

What Matters First

"But that is not the only thing that matters. What matters first of all is that since the campaign in Africa means that the initiative has passed into the hands of our allies, the campaign changes radically the political and war situation in Europe in favor of the Anglo-Soviet-American coalition; that that campaign undermines the prestige of Hitlerite Germany as a leading force in the system of the Axis powers and demoralizes Hitler's allies in Europe; that the campaign released France from her state of lethargy and mobilizes anti-Hitler forces of France and provides a basis for building up an anti-Hitler French army; that the campaign creates conditions for putting Italy out of commission, and for isolating Hitlerite Germany; finally, that the campaign creates the prerequisites for establishment of a second front in Europe nearer to Germany's vital centers which will be of decisive importance for organizing victory over Hitlerite tyranny.

"Three. What possibility is there of Soviet offensive power in the east joining the allies in the west to hasten the final victory?

"Answer. There need be no doubt that the Red army will fulfill its task with honor as it has been fulfilling it throughout the war.

"With respect, (signed) J. Stalin."

This second letter from Stalin, which will be published on the front pages of Russian newspapers today, was twice as long as the first one on October 3. It was handed to me last midnight by Nikolai Palgunov, chief of the press department of the foreign commissariat, a little more than 24 hours after I had submitted my questions.

It was typed neatly on plain, white paper without a letterhead, but this time the signature, "with respect, J. Stalin," was written in Stalin's hand with blue crayon. The earlier letter was signed with a stamp in violet ink.

The letter gave the first direct, authoritative Soviet comment on the allied campaign in North Africa, although the press had been following the progress of these operations with obvious satisfaction.

In his first letter to me, Stalin said that allied aid had been of little effect compared to Soviet contributions to the conduct of the war and called upon the allies to fulfill their obligations fully and promptly. He said a second front was of paramount importance.

How to cut the cost of Heating Your Home
BY John Barclay
AMERICA'S HOME HEATING EXPERT

Odors In the House

A COMPLAINT sometimes encountered during the heating season is the odor of fumes from the burning coal entering the basement or living quarters. All fuels generate gas when they are ignited. It is this gas that is generated in the furnace and its failure to escape up the chimney that causes an odor which can permeate the whole house. In the case of fumes in the basement, check up on the following:

1. Correct operation of dampers: The turn damper should never be used for daily operation of the furnace. It is usually set in a position so that sufficient heat is transferred upstairs. After it is once set, it is seldom necessary to change its position thru-out the burning season. The check and draft dampers should always be operated together. When sufficient heat is obtained upstairs, the check is opened and the draft damper is closed. When heat is wanted, the draft is opened and the check damper is closed.
2. Correct location for check damper: The check damper should always be located in the smoke pipe between the turn damper and the chimney. It is incorrect to locate it between the heater and the turn damper, as fumes can easily pass through and into the basement when this damper is opened.
3. Turn damper closed too tightly: If the turn damper is closed too tightly a back pressure will build up in the heater and cause the gases to seep into the basement. Do not have this damper closed too tightly, but have it placed in the position to control the burning speed of the coal.
4. Tight fitting furnace doors: Make sure that all doors on the heater fit tightly. If they do not there is a possibility of gas escaping when the heater is put on bank.
5 Condition of smoke pipe: Make sure the smoke pipe is in good condition. If it is full of rust spots there is a possibility that it in turn may be full of minute pin holes. This condition not only will cause insufficient and weak draft but may be the reason for gas odors in the basement.
6. A clean heating plant: All heating plants should be vacuum cleaned at least once a year. If this is not done there may be a sizeable accumulation of fly ash in the flue that will obstruct the draft passages. Not only will the fire burn sluggishly but the gas being unable to pass through the chimney will have a tendency to back up into the basement.
7. Operation of fire door: The fire door should only be opened when it is necessary to put on additional fuel. It should never be used as a damper. Many times it is left open to bank the fire. There is a great possibility that gases may seep into the basement through this open fire door. With the correct size check damper properly located, the firing door should never have to be used for banking purposes.
8. Correct methods of firing: When the correct methods of firing are used there is never a possibility of coal fumes backing into the basement. Carry the fire, more or less, level with the bottom of the firing door and always leave a red spot of coals exposed in front to act as a pilot light and help consume the gases.
9. Down draft: Sometimes a down draft condition may exist where the draft actually blows downward through the chimney. This is sometimes due to incorrect chimney design. The advice and suggestions of your fuel dealer will aid in eliminating this condition.

Sometimes in the case of hot air furnace installations the odor of fumes may rise upward with the warm air stream being fed through the warm air pipes directly into the rooms upstairs. Generally this is caused by leaks around joints and cracks in the fire pot. To locate this trouble check up on the joints where the fire door is attached to the outside casing of the furnace. Check on cracks in the door of the furnace or in the sections in the combustion chamber or where the sections join each other. Sometimes fumes are carried into living quarters through the opening in the return duct in the basement when cellar air is circulated. By all means if the trouble can not be located immediately get in touch with your local fuel dealer and follow his recommendations. (12)

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 14 (AP)—Long bows will twang in Westchester and Rockland counties tomorrow, when the deer season opens in eastern New York. Deer shooting in the Adirondacks began Nov. 1.

SCANTA CLAUS RATIONED

Santa Claus will be rationed when he arrives in Scotland this year. Restrictions on raw materials and reduced labor available will limit output of Christmas stockings to 25 per cent of last year's supply. Only one out of 16 children will get stockings from Santa Claus, it is reported in Edinburgh. They will cost 5 per cent more and will contain wooden or paper toys and, because of rationing, no candy.

Venezuela is having trouble in enforcing price control among its farmers.

Bill's effective pounding enabled Piepers to chalk up three more victories over the Greenes. B. Whelan had a 476 series for the losers.

Eltinge Auchmoody sparked Worfs to three in a row last night over the Unknowns as he bombarded the maples for scores of 170, 203 and 149 for a 522 triple. H. Letus had 514 and J. Letus a 509 triple. Joe Blass helped himself to a 203 single. Aubrey Berry posted a 475 triple for the losers.

The Eichlers captured two from Jakes although D. Williams of the losers had high single and high triple with his 174 and 494. V. Engleman posted a 450 triple for Eichlers.

Provenzano rolled games of 202, 168 and 167 and continued to establish himself as one of Kingston's No. 1 male 10-pin greats. Besides heading the Electrol League as president, Mike also heads the list of average bowlers. Mike also had some help from L. Gaspary, who shot a 509 triple and 206 single.

The Accounting keglers made their figures check by winning three straight from the Automatics. Augustine's 162 single and 485 series were high for the winners. Hayman had sigh single of the match with his 191.

The Dispatchers captured three in a row over the Inspection bowlers. J. Burns' 200 single and 486 series sparked the winners. C. Nelson had a 150 single for the losers and finished with a 427 series.

Bob Vincent, anchor for the Apprentices, took his turn at leading that club to victory last night, by rolling a high single of 204 and high triple of 510. Frank Cirone's consistent string of 165, 154 and 166 was moulded into a 485 cluster for the Maintenance.

Sam Angott Quits Ring; Beau Jack Beats Stolz

Lightweight Crown Is on Merry-Go-Round Again; 12,249 Fans at Bout

By SID FEDER

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—Hold your hats, boys—the lightweight merry-go-round is off the track again.

After 2½ years of spinning around in a nice, neat ring—through the rise of Sammy Angott to the 135-pound throne—the merry-go-round is on the screwy circle once more after the retirement of swarthy Sammy yesterday and the seven-round technical knockout victory Beau Jack scored last night over No. 1 challenger Allie Stolz because of a cut eye.

14,249 See Fight

Naturally, Sammy's abdication did the most toward making the merry-go-round look as much like a true circle as the three-cornered shawl your aunt Emma wears. But Jack helped a lot. It wasn't only that he held Stolz, a 5 to 12 favorite, off for the seven completed rounds of last night's Madison Square Garden shindig, for the entertainment of 14,249 paying customers. But when the State Athletic Commission's ringside physician ordered the bout halted, Allie's ailments were not regarded sufficiently severe for such drastic action.

As a matter of fact, another commission physician looked at the two cuts over the curly-haired Newark walloper's left eye later in his dressing room, and thought they didn't look "particularly dangerous."

But it still goes down in the books as a seven-round "T. K. O." for the one-time Augusta (Ga.) National Golf Course bootblack, and throws the lightweight lawn party into a wide-open brawl with "every man for theirself."

Between Angott's retirement and last night's tete-a-tete, it was generally admitted that the lightweight lace doily was a matter for argument strictly between Stolz and another Jerseyan, Tippy Larkin of Garfield, who boasts that he's beaten welterweight boss Red Cochrane five times.

May Be Rematched

But with Jack's victory, especially since you can get yourself tangled up in a nice, cozy rough-and-tumble if you want to argue about it, anything can happen now. And from the way the powers-that-be are looking at it, anything will. Among the possible decisions are:

1—Return bout between Stolz and Jack.

2—A "title" tussle featuring Jack and Larkin, suggested for December 18 in the Garden, about which the two commissions—N. B. A. and New York State—are in a "well, we'll see" state.

3—A lightweight elimination, putting Jack, Larkin, Stolz and Cleo Shans, the Los Angeles negro, into the pot together to see who comes out—(provided, of course, that Shans gets by Richie Lemos, the ex-featherweight boss, in Holyoke, Mass., Monday).

Out of all this, of course, Angott is getting a lot of fun. You remember, they laughed when the little family man from Washington (Pa.) walked in to clear up the 135-pound division once before, when no one thought he could.

They'll positively be in stitches when the boys who are left try to do it again. Especially Stolz, who almost took Sammy's title away in a fight last May, and now is wondering just what Jack used that made him look like a cross between a windmill puncher and the Chicago Bears' backfield charging last night.

Maybe it was the $10,000 that Jack and his manager guaranteed Allie for last night's production. Ten-thousand can probably put a lot of steam in the engine.

Millner Knows the Answer

Notre Dame, Ind. (AP)—Fellow members of Notre Dame's football coaching staff delight in ribbing Wayne Millner, end coach, about the 73 to 0 victory scored by the Chicago Redskins a couple of years ago when Millner was playing left end for the Redskins. Millner answers all questions with the assertion: "If we had scored first, it would have been different—it would have been 73 to 7."

Knows What He Wants

Chicago (AP) — George Halas, the Chicago Bears' coach, was granted a lieutenant commander's commission in the Navy on two conditions: (1) that he would not be stationed near Chicago and (2) that he have nothing to do with coaching.

Karam Is Hopeful For First Victory Of 1942-1943 Year

All Servicemen Will Be Admitted Free; Bucs Are Listed to Play in Preliminary Game

With the opening of the 1942-43 professional basketball season at the municipal auditorium only four days off, the Kingston Recreation committee announces that a great many of last year's fans already have requested reserved seat accommodations for the new campaign. The committee, incidentally, expects a good early season turnout for the contest Wednesday night when the Long Island Clippers will appear here.

Servicemen Come Free

Sid Lutzin had a couple of important announcements this morning when talking with a Freeman writer. He announced that all servicemen will be admitted free of charge to the game Wednesday night. Tickets must be secured at the Servicemen's Center on Broadway. Lutzin also said that Larry Epstein, American League referee, would be on hand to officiate the game.

After a few weeks of practice in New York gymnasiums, Manager "Turk" Karam, well-known sports figure in this town, declared yesterday that he believed the current edition of the Recs would get a severe test when the Clippers from Long Island come in Wednesday night. "The Clippers have a well-balanced team," Karam said, "and they have a great fellow in Lou Figari at the helm. Kingston fans who come to the auditorium Wednesday will see what I believe will be a first class early season basketball thriller."

While the Clippers will offer some outstanding basketball talent in Jake Ahearn, former Detroit Eagle star; Jerry Rizzo, "Gentleman" Jim Buckley, and others, Manager Karam's rejuvenated squad of newly-acquired players should take the floor at even odds to turn back the visitors.

Favorites to Play

The Recreations' roster was completed by Karam the latter part of this week and Karam waxed confidence when he was able to sign Herb Gershon and Ace Goldstein to the roster. "These two stars should pack a lot of strength for our team," remarked the Brooklyn Dodger official. Besides Gershon and Goldstein, two American League favorites, Karam signed Nick Shaback, Jim Naughton, Hagen Anderson, Howie Bollerman and "Porky" Rosen.

Speaking of Bollerman, Karam added, "Howie was a disappointment to Kingston fans last year but I'm pretty positive that the big blond center will prove to be a big help to the team this season. Howie has started early practices and says that he's ready for a big season."

Kingston fans will be glad to get another look at Shaback and Anderson, two stars who helped Kingston to get back on the professional bandwagon last year. Shaback, a young and aggressive ball player, was a big help in the offensive department in 1941-42 and with another season under his belt, should prove to be even stronger. Anderson needs no introduction. To name him as one of last year's most popular stars, would be putting it mildly. Hagen gives Kingston one of its best defensive ball players and he also breaks into the scoring column when the opportunity presents itself.

Preliminary Game

The Buccaneers and Forsts will meet in the preliminary Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. The main attraction is listed for 9 o'clock.

Discussing last week-end's visit to Philadelphia, where the Eagles' coach, Greasy Neale, collapsed after the New York Giant game, Stout Steve Owen remarked soberly: "I always knew I would see one of us coaches go that way. I have felt like that myself. But Neale was all right—he was cursing me and my Giants as he crawled into the ambulance."

Trip by Boat

The Detroit Lions will do their part toward relieving wartime transportation and housing problems this week by making their trip to Cleveland on a large steamer. The boat also will serve as their hotel and will tie up one block from the Cleveland stadium.

Baker Will Play

Conway Baker, veteran Chicago guard who suffered a concussion in the Redskin game at Washington last week, will be ready to face Pittsburgh on November 22, the Cardinals' next league game, doctors have informed Coach Jimmy Conzelman.

Carr After Bandits

Patrolmen Give $2,058 to Local Christmas Cheer

The Mayor's Christmas Cheer Committee organized for the year on Friday afternoon at a meeting held with Mayor William F. Edelmuth at the city hall when Mrs. Christopher P. Roche was named chairman of the committee and Fred Schoonmaker of the Rondout National Bank was chosen to serve as secretary.

Mayor Edelmuth at the organization meeting reported that the first donation to be received was from the Kingston Patrolmen's Association who had presented him with a check for $2,058, part of the proceeds of the Newburgh-Kingston police departments' baseball game on July 13, of this year.

The check was presented to the mayor by a committee from the Patrolmen's Association composed of Captain James V. Simpson, President Joseph P. Fallon and Lieutenant Ernest Boss, shortly before the Christmas Cheer committee met and organized.

The committee also presented the mayor with a communication signed by the committee on baseball team in which it stated that the association take great pride and interest in the youth of the city, and derive much satisfaction from the spirit of friendship and good will that exists between the children and the police.

Single Manpower Head Considered

tration supporter who asked that his name not be used, pointed out that all selective service authority is vested in the President and that Mr. Roosevelt had created the present war manpower commission by executive order.

Several legisaltors expressed hope that, if Mr. Roosevelt creates a new over-all manpower agency he could persuade Bernard M. Baruch to head it. There also was speculation that the chief executive might turn this problem over to James F. Byrnes, the new economic director.

The present war manpower commission, headed by Paul V. McNutt, was criticized by the senate defense committee for failure to formulate a national manpower policy—a criticism that has been echoed privately in inner administration circles and publicly in the senate by Chairman Pepper (D.-Fla.) of a labor committee also inquiring into the problme.

Herman S. Wells, 75, Dies; Former Sheriff of County, Noted G.O.P. Figure

Herman S. Wells, 75, for years one of the most prominent residents of Ulster county, died at 7:30 o'clock this morning in his home in Ellenville, following an illness of several months. Funeral services will be held from the home on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Surviving are his widow, the former Miss Cora Schoonmaker; two brothers, William Wells of Saugerties and John Wells of New York city; a sister, Mrs. Alice Tucker of Connecticut, and a half sister, Mrs. Everett Becker of Saugerties.

Mr. Wells is a former sheriff of Ulster county, and for years was Republican leader in the town of Wawarsing, serving as a member of the village board, and as mayor of Ellenville for several years.

Mr. Wells was born in Stone Ridge April 23, 1867. When he was seven months old his parents moved to High Falls, where later he attended public school. He was early interested in the realities of life, however, for at the age of 12 years he was working as a lock-tender at old No. 10 lock on the Delaware & Hudson canal at High Falls. He worked there for two seasons and then for two years was employed as clerk in the store of Thomas Snyder, a well known High Falls merchant.

Meanwhile Mr. Well had taken a course of instruction in telegraphy and leaving the Snyder store he was engaged for two years by the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company as telegraph operator. Such was his proficiency that in 1886 he was transferred to Ellenville, where he was made manager of the telegraph office there for the canal company and the Western Union, which position he retained for a quarter of a century.

His activity and enterprise were demonstrated by the fact that during three years, in addition to taking care of the work of his office and conducting a news and stationery store, he built, owned and operated telephone lines which gave service to the people of Southern Ulster for many years. He also acquired control of the Delaware River Telephone and Telegraph Co., which operated in all Sullivan and part of Delaware county, becoming its president and treasurer.

In 1911, Mr. Wells disposed of his telephone interests to the New York Telephone Co., at the same time resigning from the Western Union management and engaged in the automobile business.

For some years he was also interested in the granite and marble business, in the well known firm of Ryan & Wells. He also had been engaged as superintndent of construction on county highways.

Mr. Wells served two terms as a member of the Board of Supervisors. His first term was in 1908-09, and the second 1932-33.

He was elected sheriff of Ulster county on the Republican ticket and served from 1924-26. For years he was Republican leader of the town of Wawarsing.

Always interested in firemanic matters he was a prominent member of Scorsby Hose Co., of Ellenville for years. For fifteen years he was also a member of the famous Clayton Band of Ellenville.

Fraternally Mr. Wells was a member of Wawarsing Lodge, F. & A. M., Wawarsing Chapter, R. A. M., Rondout Commandery and Cyprus Shrine of Albany. He had also been a member for many years of Awosting Lodge, Knights of Pythias.

There was no change in previously announced plans for rationing coffee to individuals, who are allowed one pound each—if over 15 years of age—between November 29 and January 3.

Beats All Axis In Steel Output

U. S. Is Now Shown Far Ahead of Best Enemy Nations Can Produce.

WASHINGTON. — Production of steel in the United States is far ahead of the best the Axis nations can do, according to the War Production board's, iron and steel branch.

Axis steel production, including the German-controlled countries of Europe was about 74,000,000 ingot tons in 1941 whereas this country produced 82,927,557 tons last year and will top 86,000,000 tons this year.

More than 75 per cent of the country's steel output of 5,300,000 tons a month, is now going into direct war use and the remainder into such essential industries as railroad machinery manufacture, and the like, David F. Austin, acting chief of the iron and steel branch said. He added that 80 per cent of the steel being produced is being delivered on ratings A-1-A, or higher.

Record Since 1938.

The 5,300,000 tons a month currently being delivered represents finished steel products, a reduction of about 30 per cent from ingot production of more than 7,000,000 tons.

In terms of plates and shapes, sheets, bars, pipe, wire, rails, and the like, the United States this year will turn out about 62,000,000 tons. This is slightly more than 70 per cent of the 86,000,000 ingot tons the nation is expected to produce. The remaining 30 per cent goes back into the furnaces in the form of scrap.

This is the way the nation's ingot production has grown since 1939:

1939: 52,798,714 net tons.
1940: 66,982,686 net tons.
1941: 82,927,557 net tons.
1942: 86,000,000 net tons (estimated).

To make this increased production possible, steel-making capacity, as distinct from actual production, has been stepped up correspondingly. At the end of 1939, it was 81,000,000 tons; 1940, 84,000,000; 1941, 88,000,000. By the end of 1942 capacity probably will reach 93,000,000 tons and by mid-1943, 98,000,000.

In addition to the use of tremendous quantities of steel for weapons of war, considerable allotments also are going abroad into necessary construction, including hangars for airplanes, soldiers' housing, submarine nets and a wide variety of other products. Huge quantities also are required here for the building of new war plants and other essential requirements in connection with the war.

Balanced Program Sought.

"The problem of steel, then, is one of proper scheduling and planning in order to come out even on a well-balanced war production program," Mr. Austin said. "We want to make just as many tank guns as we need for tanks, no more and no less. And that goes for everything else.

"Scheduling has been a tough problem so far. After Pearl Harbor we roared out to make all of everything we could. We stopped the production of civilian articles so there was plenty of steel available for every factory for a while. Now the time has come when the program must be brought into balance. It's just now that we must make our 5,000,000 tons of production fit a demand of around 9,000,000 tons a month."

Grangers Receive F.D.R.'s Message

Praises Farmers' Work This Year; Asks for More in Future

By ARTHUR E. BURGESS

Wenatchee, Wash., Nov. 14 (AP)—President Roosevelt told the nation's Grangers today, in a special message to their 76th national convention, that "in this war, the need for American food and other farm products is almost without limit."

"This year American farmers made a magnificent response to the demands upon them," the President said in a message to the Grange master, Albert S. Goss. "Those demands are increasing; so are the obstacles in meeting them.

"The rural families of the United States face many sacrifices, many difficulties. The nation looks to them to produce the food we need to win this war, and to fulfill all their other wartime obligations as citizens. As in the past, the great farm organizations have a large place in helping farmers work together for victory."

In a message as one Granger to another—the President has been a member of the Chapel Corners Grange in Dutchess county, New York, for 27 years—the Chief Executive expressed the belief that "in all its long history, the national Grange never has met at a time when the nation depended more upon its farmers, and farmers faced so many grave decisions. I say this in the knowledge that the Grange was born in the very shadow of the Civil War x x x."

The President's message shared convention interest with a sharply critical report on the synthetic rubber situation by E. T. Taylor, chairman of the Grange's potent transportation committee.

Denouncing what he charged were obstacles placed in the way of synthetic rubber development by selfish interests, Taylor, master of the Idaho State Grange, reported that a new and secret process had been devised.

He said the process was "just about as simple as dropping some potatoes, wheat or beans in a kettle, adding some gelatin, cooking it a while and then putting on your new tires and driving away."

The secret process, Taylor said, has been offered to the War Production Board and "would eliminate even the necessity of making alcohol in the process, but so far we have had no encouragement."

He stressed these contentions:

One bushel of wheat, currently selling for about one dollar could make two 6:00-16 tires, or seven recaps, or 3.2 gallons of alcohol.

The process would produce synthetic rubber at less than 10 cents a pound.

Production from farm products could be started in one-third the time it would take under the petroleum process. The cost and the use of critical materials would be only half as much.

The California Winery Association has offered its idle plants and machinery, with an annual capacity of 100,000,000 gallons of alcohol, to a non-profit organization to bring about production of synthetic rubber.

The Tri-State Industrial and Synthetic Rubber Association, a new organization of farmers, civic, industrial and education groups, is ready to start production whenever the government gives a "go ahead" signal.

Taylor charged that "the greed of the rubber, petroleum and industrial alcohol industries," fearing post-war competition, was blocking development of the synthetic rubber processes.

Pilot Found

Capt. William T. Cherry, Jr., pilot of the plane in which Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and other officers disappeared in the Pacific, was rescued November 12, the army announced. Hope was expressed that others from the plane might be floating on life rafts in the vicinity.

Navy Rescues Ed Rickenbacker

czyk who was with them died several days ago and was buried at sea.

"Lieutenant James C. Whitaker, Lieutenant John J. De Angelis and Staff Sergeant James Reynolds, all of the United States army who were also aboard the missing plane, have been located by a Catalina flying boat ashore on a small island in the south Pacific.

"With the rescue of Captain William T. Cherry, United States army, this makes all the personnel of the Rickenbacker party accounted for."

The rescue of Cherry was announced yesterday. The War Department said that, although weakened by about three weeks exposure to sun and sea he was "in good condition."

Cherry was the pilot of the plane, which was carrying Rickenbacker to the war zone for a survey of air force operations for Secretary of War Stimson.

The famous World War flier's party had been last heard from October 21 when a radio message came through saying the plane had only about one hour's supply of gasoline.

In the long days of uncertainty which followed that message, American ships and planes swept over hundreds and hundreds of square miles of the south Pacific looking for the little rubber boats or other evidences of the presence of the Rickenbacker party.

Second High Adventure

This was the second time in recent years that Rickenbacker, who shot down a score of German planes in France in the last great war, has encountered high adventure and great danger as a result of aerial mishap. Two years ago he survived the crash of an airliner near Atlanta, Ga., although some others among the passengers and crew at that time were killed. Rickenbacker was severely injured then.

Through the long days of waiting this time two persons typified America's hope that Rickenbacker would yet be saved.

His wife had said: "Eddie will turn up. He's too old a hand to get lost in any airplane now."

Stimson had commented that Rickenbacker was "an exception to ordinary rules."

The Catalina flying boat which found Captain Rickenbacker and his army flight companions in the south Pacific is the type of plane of which the navy has relied most heavily for scouting and patrol in all the war zones where the navy maintains bases or outposts.

Wife's Statement

Rickenbacker's wife issued the following statement from her New York home:

"I have just been advised by General H. H. Arnold of my husband's rescue. Of course the tension we all have been under began being relieved yesterday by the discovery of Capt. William T. Cherry, Jr., pilot of the ship.

"As stated before, my belief in the resourcefulness of this wonderful group of men, to say nothing of the constant prayers of Eddie's thousands of admirers and friends, would make it possible for them to withstand the strain until the War Department's thorough and efficient search brought about their ultimate rescue.

"I can't speak too highly of the wonderful cooperation of the army and navy and wish I could thank every one who participated personally. I have not a doubt in my mind about the wonderful reception given them by the men on that rubber raft when they were found."

Official Estimates Are Given in Answer to Teen Age Draft Bill Questions

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Here are answers, based upon official statements and estimates, to questions on the effect of the teen-age draft bill:

Q. How many 18 and 19-year-olds will be eligible for military service?

A. Approximately 2,400,000 registered last June 30 and another 1,800,000 who have reached 18 since then or will do so during the next year will probably be registered January 1, 1944.

Q. Will they all be drafted?

A. No. Many of the June 30 registrants have already reached 20 and been inducted, many more have volunteered for the Army, Navy, Marines or Coast Guard or enrolled in Reserve units, many are physically unfit, and some will be deferred on occupational or dependency grounds.

Q. How many actually will enter the fighting forces?

A. About 800,000 to 900,000 physically fit men who have not volunteered are left over from the June 30 registrations, and about 1,275,000 other physically fit teen-agers should register during 1943. Most of them are expected to enlist or be drafted.

Q. How far will they go toward satisfying the foreseeable requirements of the military services?

A. They should furnish more than 2,000,000 of the 4,500,000 men needed by the end of next year to give the United States an Army of 7,500,000, a Navy of 2,500,000, and a Marine and Coast Guard strength of 700,000, making our total fighting forces 9,700,000.

Q. When will they start drafting 18 and 19-year-olds who already are registered?

A. That depends upon what advance preparations local draft boards have made to meet calls with older men and how quickly the boards classify teen-agers as ready for service. Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey estimated inductions could begin generally in 30 to 40 days after the President signed the bill.

Q. What about the 18-year-olds who haven't been registered and those who become 18 later?

A. Regulations for their registration will be issued by the President, who may set specific registration dates or provide that each youth shall register within a designated time after he reaches 18. After that, they will be subject to induction at the call of their draft boards.

Q. Will youths be taken out of school for the armed services?

A. Those in high school who are called during the last half of the school year may be deferred until next July 1 if they ask to finish out the year. Collegians in reserve units will not be drafted, but will remain subject to call to active duty at any time. Other collegians who are physically fit will be subject to induction.

Q. What will be the effect upon the colleges?

A. This hasn't received official clarification yet. Rep. Sparkman (D-Ala) said the Army would put selected men through college courses of nine to 27 months at government expense, making the selections after these men have been inducted. The Navy has not revealed its plans. Nearly 50 small colleges closed before the teen-age bill passed.

Q. What effect will the teen-age draft have on married men?

A. It will lessen the number of them drafted to the extent to which teen-agers are taken to meet Army calls. This could mean interruption or postponement of the calling of married men for two months or more, or greatly ease calls upon them for that period and lengthen such calls indefinitely. Generally speaking, it will practically assure married men with children that they will not be called before October 1, 1943, at the earliest.

Six Persons Die In Kaiser Blaze; 40 Others Burned

Vancouver, Wash., Nov. 14 (AP)—A fire which started in a wastebasket and "seemed to explode all over the room" killed at least six persons and burned 40 others as it levelled a two-story wooden dormitory at the Henry J. Kaiser shipyard here last night.

A search of the smouldering ruins continued today in the fear more bodies might be discovered. Shipyard officials had no idea just how many persons were trapped by the sudden blaze, and the only list of occupants was destroyed with the building.

Deputy Sheriff Fred Greenwood said he noticed smoke while on an inspection tour, and traced it to a linen storage room.

As he opened the door, the fire, already burning briskly in the wastebasket, flashed up.

"It seemed to explode all over the room," Greenwood said.

"I didn't even have a chance to sound the fire alarm. I ran down the hall as fast as I could and the fire was right at my heels. I thought of the fellows upstairs and I ran up to warn them.

"The fire got there almost as soon as I did. I shouted to Charley Dick, and he ran down one wing, warning everybody and I took the other wing. But the fire came so fast that I could only shout, 'Fire', and pound on the doors as I went past. Some of the men were asleep in their rooms. They didn't have a chance."

Six bodies, burned beyond recognition, were taken out after the flames subsided. None of the injured was burned gravely.

Officials said the building housed 320—80 of them women—but that not more than half would have been inside at the time. Some of the occupants were recruited recently in New York.

Troopers Ask People Who Hear Shots to Report

Numerous cases of hi-jacking of deer in the Phoenicia and Mt. Tremper section are reported. Troopers Raymond Dunn and Frank Maish said this morning that they have come across half a dozen or more carcasses of deer that have been shot and left lying in the woods. One of the latest finds was that of a good sized buck, its body filled with buckshot. The animal apparently had gone on some distance after being shot and the night hunter who did the deed either lost the animal in the dark or was afraid to follow the trail.

Troopers are hampered in their efforts to apprehend these lawbreakers, by the fact that in many cases, persons who hear the shots do not report the matter to the state police until it is too late to do much about it.

Elephant Chase Goes On

Huntington, Ind., Nov. 14 (AP)—The chase after Modoc, the two-ton female elephant who refused to act like a lady, was still on today after more than 60 hours of weary bush-beating by circus roustabouts, police, farmers and others, including the governor of Indiana. The elusive elephant, who broke from her handlers Wednesday at Wabash, and took to the Wabash river bottomlands after a brief but destructive tour through town, meandered over to Huntington yesterday where Gov. Henry F. Schricker joined the hunt for a short while but gave up to keep a speaking engagement.

Will Use Plain English

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration broke with tradition today by putting one of its orders into plain English. The order, which incidentally revised the price ceiling on industrial wooden boxes, was explained by O.P.A. as a first step in a continuing effort to put price regulations in "a simple narrative and explanatory style." Besides omitting legal phraseology, the order is completely rearranged to present the scope and operation of the new ceiling in "logical" fashion, O.P.A. said.
